Freedomite Children Coming Home

'We Prayed and Thoughts Came to Our Hearts'

Five Years Too Long to Wait

By STEVE SCOTT

NELSON (CP) — Shawled Sons of Freedom Doukhobor mothers sat silently Friday as a magistrate announced the release of 77 Freedomite children who had been in provincial government custody, in some cases, for five years.

Not a flicker of a smile nor a trace of satisfaction was seen in the impassive faces of mothers who for years had not seen their children except under the shadow of a wire fence surrounding a dormitory at New Denver, 65 miles from here.

The parents, after much soul-searching and prayer, in effect had buried their ancient religious fears to conform with modern law.

"Five years was too much," one woman said later.

"We prayed to God and thoughts came into our hearts."

All but two of the children would be released at 1 p.m. Sunday and special arrangements would be made for the other two.

"The court wishes the parents good luck and happiness," Magistrate Evans said in the silent court.

The dormitory was established by the provincial government in 1953 to house children whose Freedomite parents did not send them to school according to the laws of the province. RCMP rounded up the children over a period of years.

Water-Bomber Splashes Thirsty Blaze

Fast-shuttling aircraft are aiding in battle against raging Quadra Island forest fire by water bombing. Small planes carrying 150 gallons can scoop up a load from the nearby saltchuck and make a bombing run in six minutes. Blaze near Campbell River is worst in Vancouver forest district, now faced again with the threat of complete closure.—(Baldwin's photo).

MOM WHYTE LOSES 'NEGLECTED' TOTS

Ontario Raids Haven

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario health department closed in on Mrs. Bertha "Mom" Whyte Friday night and emptied her Whytehaven mission home of its child occupants.

Armed with a court order issued under the Child Welfare Act, a cavalcade of cars descended on the big farm home shortly before darkness and removed 117 children, many of them kicking and screaming in fright.

RULED 'NEGLECTED'

The court order said it was apparent the children were "neglected."

Mrs. Whyte, a devotedly religious woman who says she has a "covenant with God" to care for homeless children, protested bitterly that the action was taken without any warning.

LONG CONFLICT

Mrs. Whyte long has been in conflict with Ontario health and welfare authorities over the operation of the home. The battle reached a climax in the last few weeks with outbreaks of influenza, infectious hepatitis and gastro-enteritis at Whytehaven.

UNDERSTAFFED

Welfare Minister Cecile said this week the home was overcrowded and understaffed and warned that action would be taken unless some of the children were removed to other accommodation.

Mrs. Whyte, 43-year-old wife of a rubber plant worker, denied the charge of neglect.

ASKED PROOF

"I asked them proof of the neglect which was stated in the document and they refused to answer me. They still have not proved that I neglected any of my children. I want proof of the statement."

She said two welfare officials visited the home Friday to study her records.

CONTACT PARENTS

"They said it was so they could contact the parents of the children if necessary. There never was any indication that this would happen."

Welfare workers said the children were taken by car to Children's Aid Societies from Port Hope to Hamilton. Some would go to the Salvation Army. Children in the isolation ward, suspected of having hepatitis, would go to isolation hospitals.

FLED ACROSS FIELDS

Several of the older boys, about 13 or 14 years old, fled across the farm fields as the officials moved in.

Welfare officials used arm tape to identify the younger children, most of whom were in bed when the cars started arriving about 8 p.m.

PREMIER BENNETT

Jokers Ignite Bondfire Fuel

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Staff Reporter

KELOWNA—Pranksters tried to steal Premier Bennett's thunder last night by setting fire to the huge pile of rubbish which was to be used to ignite the big "bondfire" today.

While Social Creditors celebrated in the plush Aquatic Club here about 11 p.m., flames suddenly roared 30 feet into the air from the burning rubbish pile on the nearby shore of Okanagan Lake. (See story on Page 15.)

"My gosh, that's where the raft is," said a Socred official looking out a window.

Cabinet ministers, and civic and board of trade officials who were their guests, dashed down to the lakeshore where they found the raft, which will be used to float the "bondfire," safe beside a Socred "Happy Birthday" placard.

The party stood around and watched the rubbish burn, making plans to round up more for the big fire today.

Meeting in Vancouver

B.C. Unionists to Study Overall Labor Crisis

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three hundred union leaders from across B.C. will meet in an all-day session here today to discuss the province's labor situation.

The delegates to the B.C. Federation of Labor council meeting will discuss a move to post bail totalling $6,000 for two Ironworkers' Union officials being held in prison because they have not paid fines for contempt of court.

The meeting, closed to the press and public, will have other important topics — the IWA strike, which has had 25,000 coastal wodworkers off the job for nearly four weeks, and the fishermen and shoreworkers' strike, which has idled 5,000 salmon fishermen, 3,000 shoreworkers and 700 tendermen.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the federation, said the meeting will discuss the labor situation as a whole and will be asked especially to approve a motion to allow federation officers to post bail for the ironworkers' officials.

President Fernand Whitmore and business agent Thomas McGrath of Local 97 of the Ironworkers are being held in Oakalla Prison, where they were taken when they did not pay fines of $3,000 each.

Convictions came over noncompliance with a court order to have men return to work on one section of the Second Narrows Bridge, shut down by a strike of the ironworkers' union.

U.K. Printers End Walkout

LONDON (Reuters) — A work stoppage which has shut down 4,000 printing firms and 1,100 provincial newspapers for more than six weeks will end next Wednesday, union leaders and employers announced Friday night.

Pulp to Reds 'Impossible'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sales of B.C. pulp to Communist China will not be possible in the foreseeable future, an official of Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd. said Friday.

Better Than for Some Time

Canada, U.S. Relations 'Fundamentally Healthy'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Relations between Canada and the United States are better today than they have been for some time, says U.S. Consul-General Hayden Raynor of Vancouver.

He made the observation Friday in an address evaluating a week-long seminar on Canada-U.S. relations at the University of British Columbia.

Relations are "fundamentally healthy," Mr. Raynor said, and because of continuing consultation between the two governments "we find it almost always possible to come to some solution."

However, he noticed among Canadians at the seminar "more uneasiness than I had realized existed in respect of foreign investment."

Shaken Survivors Arrive in Victoria

Seven shaken survivors of Thursday's head-on collision between two of the CNR's passenger trains at Gainford, Alta., arrived in Victoria late last night.

None was among the 15 passengers listed as injured, but most of them bore bruises to remind them of their brush with death.

Typical comment was made by Mrs. Mildred Shewchuk, of 3886 Seaton Road, who said: "I never want to go through that again.

"It happened so quick. People were thrown out of their seats and everybody was screaming. We were there more than six hours and we missed all our connections. Finally somebody brought sandwiches and coffee down to the wreck."

Her husband Nick said he heard the emergency brakes squeal just before the collision.

"Our kids, Helen (5) and Ronnie (4), slid off their seats and were jammed under a table," he said.

5,500-Mile Cruise—In U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever think you'd like to get the family into a little boat and go cruising down the river? Todd Crawford, a lean, twinkling, nut-brown Missourian, thought so, did so, and in 38 leisurely days has cruised to a world distance record.

Crawford, his wife Sue, and his daughter Sue, climbed into a 16-footer named Su Too in Yankton, S.D., on June 6. Several rivers, canals, inland waterways, one gulf, 21 states, 51 days and 5,500 miles later they reached New York. The previous record for an outboard motorboat cruise was 3,800 miles, set by Harvey Hacker in 1955.

Only 38 of the days were spent on the water. The other 13 were spent sightseeing ashore. Crawford and the three Sues now are chugging up the Hudson on the homeward leg of a cruise totalling 8,300 miles.

Asked what was the most irritating thing about such a summer, Mrs. Crawford, a cheerful sort, replied: "I'm scared of water."

Crawford said the route he laid out is the longest possible within the United States without resorting to portages.

Starting at Yankton, they took the Missouri River, Mississippi River, the Gulf, Florida rivers and canals, and the east coast inland waterway to New York.

From here on it's the Hudson River, Champlain Canal, Lake Champlain, old St. Lawrence Seaway, Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron, and Michigan, Chicago Canals, Mississippi, Missouri, and Osage river to the lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, which is home.

In Florida, they took a wrong river in the Everglades, ran into a dead end of trees, while backtracking got lashed by fringe winds of a tornado, ended up exhausted in a dismal hotel, and remembered the day was their 19th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Crawford was asked what they planned to do next summer.

Six Hurt On Train

REGINA (CP) — Six persons, one of them a dining car waiter, were brought to hospital here Friday after being hurt when the Canadian Pacific Railway's train No. 8, the Dominion, made an emergency stop as it was leaving Moose Jaw, 40 miles west.

Moscow Rises, Falls Daily

Red Capital Throbs In Tune with Tides

Twice a day it rises straight up more than a foot and a half.

Earth tides, like those of the sea, are caused by the gravitational pull of the sun and moon.

Nesmeyanov, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, noted the effect of earth tides on Moscow in an article published by Pravda on International Geophysical Year research. The article has been translated and distributed here.

Investigation of these ripples in the planet's crust, Nesmeyanov said, is "one of the comparatively new methods of studying the internal structure of the earth."

"It is known," he said, "that in Moscow the tidal wave in 12 hours can reach 50 to 60 centimetres (1.65 to 1.98 feet).

"This means that the whole city is raised in a vertical direction by half a metre twice a day."

But the crustal effect is much less apparent than the great liquid tides in the world's oceans and so may be hard to observe in its own right near the seashore.

Study of earth tides during the IGY, Nesmeyanov said, "showed the importance of conducting observation at points remote from oceans."

This work, he suggested, could be done with special profit "in central Asia where the indirect effects caused by the shifting of the water masses of the oceans are not felt."

This and other research done during the IGY, he said, will lead to "substantial expansion of our knowledge of the earth."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

POOLE, Dorset — This is a fatter and shinier England than we saw on our last visit, eight years ago. But some things never change: British kindness and good manners.

We were tired when we got off the Italia at Southampton about 7 a.m. and made our way to the customs table at the letter M, where our luggage was assembled, inside a railway station.

An amiable porter moved the cases up to the customs table and stood by waiting to take them farther; a railway official asked whether there was anything he could do to help; and a customs officer asked the routine questions in a mild and courteous tone, while looking us over in that searching, intuitive way that customs officers have.

In my limited experience, I think that British customs officers are the politest and New York customs officers the rudest. Reasonable and friendly treatment from the customs is an important thing for the traveller who comes ashore tired and harassed.

The man in charge of luggage was doing business from a suitcase, in a cheerful and unhurried way. While I negotiated with him to have a trunk and two suitcases forwarded, my two small boys were standing at the barrier, coolly inspecting my mother-in-law and my wife's nephew and cousin, who had driven down to Southampton to fetch us.

Last Look at Italia

As the car swung away from the station, we had our last look at the Italia. She was a comfortable ship.

Then we were moving past puffing steam locomotives, double-decker buses, police in the familiar tall helmets and scores of men on bicycles; past brick walls and gleaming store fronts.

Last time I saw Southampton it was a bomb-shattered ghost of a town. Now most of the ruins have been swept away, and streets of handsome glass-fronted stores built. Only a few weedy bombsites remain. The shops are crammed with a rich assortment of groceries and appliances, and the streets are crowded with cars.

The boys cried out with excitement when they saw double-decker buses or one of the three-wheeled cars which Britain makes for the home market. They decided that they liked my wife's cousin, Arthur and her nephew, Trevor, and showed their goodwill by climbing and pummelling them, even though Arthur was driving.

"Do you live in a castle?" Michael asked Arthur.

We drove on through the New Forest, that ancient, park-like woodland interspersed with open places where the wild ponies wandered. We brushed off the children's suggestions that we should stop and feed the ponies, and take one home with us.

War a Distant Memory

In Bournemouth, the post-war shabbiness had given place to a look of wealth and abundance. A new multi-story hotel had arisen where the shattered wreck of the Lansdowne used to be. The war seemed a distant memory. Only by strenuous efforts could the mind call up an image of blackout, air raid sirens, barbed wire and iron posts on the beaches, and thousands of Canadian airmen laughing, chattering and playing cards and dice in the bare rooms of the seaside hotels.

The pier, formerly broken in half to frustrate a possible German invasion, had been repaired, and a paddlewheel pleasure steamer plied from it. My little boys took off their shoes and socks on the beach and ran squealing with pleasure along the fine golden sand, while I sat back in a deck chair, nearly asleep.

It was early. Only a few mothers, fathers, dogs and children with buckets, spades and rubber balls were on the sand. The sea odor, the sand castles, and the sound of English voices together stirred up some very old memories of my own childhood on an English beach.

John cried when he was separated from a boat which Trevor had made for him out of sand. Then we were in the car again on our way to the home of my wife's mother, in Poole, where we are to stay for a time. I feel tired enough to sleep for a week.

Weather Luck Holds

Queen Carries Sun with Her

HALIFAX (CP)—The Queen's fabulous luck with the weather held out long enough Friday for a three-stop circuit of Nova Scotia on this eve of her departure for home after her 15,000-mile, 45-day tour.

She visited the steel and coal areas of Sydney and New Glasgow before winding up at this old naval base, which will be her departure point tonight.

There was a relaxed atmosphere Friday with the Queen in an easy-going frame of mind, a happy smile on her face and apparently ready to carry out her program no matter how tough it might be.

Early in the morning she insisted on taking off from Charlottetown with her destination points weathered in close to royal limits for flying because she said she didn't want to keep people waiting in the streets. But it was Queen's weather all the way with the sun splashing through the murk every time she hove in sight.

And the prince was in an unusually jovial mood, shooting asides to the press party, telling a six-foot-10-inch scholarship winner he was obviously headed for "higher" education.

'NOT IN FOLD?'

He kidded a newspaper editor with a question as to why he hadn't been "taken into the fold" of Roy Thomson, owner of many papers in Canada as well as the United States and recent purchaser of a string of British newspaper properties.

The royal tourists gave the impression they had had a good time but were also glad it was close to the end of a long tour—and close to home and family. They are six hours away by jet from England.

Massey, John D. Fly to Farewell

HALIFAX (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Governor-General Massey arrived here Friday night to bid farewell to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who fly to England from here tonight.

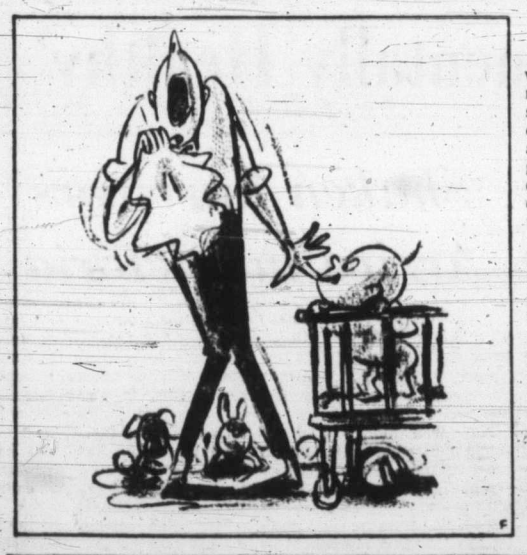
Father Has Nine Fingers



GOAT MOUTH

A dietary phenomenon in which babies, usually from nine to 24 months, are possessed of a great appetite for everything but food, showing a marked preference for coffee grounds, egg shells, lamp cords, soap, soil, crib railings, dog biscuit and quite often the ear of the dog itself.

Just how the infant, with his small and limited number of teeth, can chew his way through crib railings, spaniel ears, etc., will forever remain a mystery to the parent unless in an effort to remove splinters, dog hair, egg shells, etc., the parent is stupid enough to stick a finger in said infant's mouth. Not all nine-fingered fathers have power saws.

Federation May Post $6,000

Court Allows Bail For Union Officials

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bail has been allowed for two ironworkers' union officials convicted of contempt of court but they are not expected to be released from prison until late today.

The men, business agent Tom McGrath and president Fernand Leopold Whitmore of Local 97 of the Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers Union, were placed in Oakalla Prison Thursday when they failed to pay $3,000 fines for contempt.

Mr. Justice F. A. Sheppherd granted an application for bail and set it at $3,000 each.

LIKELY POST BAIL

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said the federation likely would post bail for the two men following a meeting today. The meeting had to approve the use of the money.

McGrath and Whitmore were held in custody after Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the B.C. Supreme Court had refused an application to have their fines delayed pending an appeal.

UNION PAYS

Union local has paid its own fine of $10,000 for contempt.

The case has arisen out of a strike of the ironworkers' union which began June 23, leaving about 500 men idle and stopping work on projects across the province. The union seeks a 62-cent increase in the hourly wage of $2.62.

Invitation to Khrushchev In Nixon Talk Today?

MOSCOW (UPI) — Vice-President Richard Nixon returned to Moscow Friday from a four-day tour of Siberia during which he urged that statesmen "work out political difficulties" and hinted that Nikita Khrushchev may be invited to the United States.

The vice-president may extend the invitation in a radio address he will deliver to the Russian people tonight.

In Geneva, Western diplomats were predicting that Khrushchev may be invited "within a few days" to make the visit.

During a stopover at Beyloyarsk, in the Ural Mountains, Nixon and Vice-Admiral Hyman Rickover toured a Soviet nuclear power plant under construction, and said they were "deeply impressed."

Cyclist Went Wrong Way To New Life

ZWOLLE, The Netherlands (Reuters) — A new way to dive off the land without working was discovered by a 45-year-old Dutch carpenter.

For four months he just pedalled around central Holland on a bike digging up unwanted canned meals Dutch soldiers had buried while on manoeuvres.

Yesterday he was in court, charged with stealing the bicycle.

Los Angeles Sizzling, Too

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The city of Los Angeles climaxed the hottest July on record with a sweltering 97-degree maximum — all-time higher for July 30.

The high for yesterday was two degrees above the previous mark for July 31—95, set in 1950.

Nobody Wants Store's Skunks

Judge Warns Lady Barfly:

No Bars, Bottles or Bootleggers

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 21-year-old woman who took a $1,000 bill from a visiting logger was ordered Friday to stay away from liquor for a year and a half.

Magistrate Oscar Orr gave Elsie Viatkin an 18-month suspended sentence for theft. But because she was "becoming a barfly," Magistrate Orr said, she would have to stay out of all "places in Vancouver where intoxicating beverages are sold."

"That will cover even bootleggers," the farsighted magistrate said.

Where did the $1,000 bill come from? The logger, in town for a visit, told police he got the bill at a bank after cashing a cheque—just because he wanted a $1,000 bill.

The magistrate said the only reason he didn't send Miss Viatkin to jail was because the logger gave her "sort of an invitation, the way he was flashing the $1,000 bill around."

Mother, Daughter Face Deportation

OTTAWA (CP) — Laval Fortier, deputy minister of immigration, said Friday a Chinese woman and her daughter now living in Winnipeg will be deported next week unless they voluntarily leave in the meantime.

Mr. Fartier said the department can not find grounds for further clemency for Mrs. Chiu You Lai, 32, and her 11-year-old daughter, Chiu Yee San, who entered Canada from Hong Kong as visitors four years ago.

Under immigration regulations they are not eligible for permanent residence, he said.

The couple has been visiting Mrs. Chiu's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lum of Winnipeg.

Citizenship Minister Fairclough said the Chius were to leave Canada July 15 after the extension of a deportation order issued Jan. 16. They had had four extensions of their original visiting period.

Mr. Fortier said the Chius have not left Winnipeg.

They Enriched the Nation

THIS evening on the far side of Canada, in Halifax, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will complete their royal tour of the Dominion. By the change in plans announced after and no doubt connected with the Queen's brief indisposition while in B.C., they will fly back to Britain by Comet instead of travelling by sea aboard the Britannia. A historic occasion will have ended.

There have been other royal tours but never one perhaps in which response to a smiling and devoted monarch has been so enthusiastic. Put in terms of the theatre the royal tour has been a smash hit. Wherever she has gone the Queen has captivated Canadians by her inherent charm, by her good nature and by the aura of a happy and pleasing personality. It adds to the pride of the country, also, that its Queen should be good looking as well as good.

Many ordinary persons in varying walks of life have been left with an abiding memory; the moment when they spoke to the sovereign and enjoyed her personal interest. Officialdom as usual monopolized far too large a share of Her Majesty's attention, but happily there was opportunity for the Queen to meet on intimate level with many loyal citizens and learn at first-hand something of their life and pursuits.

Criticism aplenty has been voiced at the severity of the ordeal imposed on the Queen by a 45-day schedule of continuous travel and public appearance, and attendance at functions which followed with bewildering sequence and sameness. Were she not an individual of poise and equable mental and physical health Her Majesty would have literally been done almost to death. As it was the tour was a punishing experience for all of its delight and lack of complaint from the sovereign.

Her Majesty will take with her as she leaves Canadian ground this evening even warmer wishes for her future than before. We are grateful for her visit and that of her inimitable consort, Prince Philip. Together they have enriched the nation by their sojourn among us, and refreshed and strengthened the link that binds this country to the Commonwealth crown. We hope it will be possible for them to come back again soon, although under circumstances that lessen the pressures and strain on a Queen whom it should be our desire to cherish but not to overburden.

Committees Enough

THE suggestion of a Victoria alderman that an intermunicipal parks board be created with representatives from school and council circles in the Greater Victoria region seems to have been based on the hope of the cohesion it might bring to joint developments in the future. The proposal may prove more academic than practical, however. Where would such a board acquire its funds if not from the same sources, the councils and school districts concerned from which representatives would be appointed? A parks board with separate tax-levying power is hardly contemplated. There are enough taxing agencies now.

What Alderman Mooney would need to show to make his proposal stick is that the Greater Victoria communities would co-operate more actively under a segregated parks' body than they do now in their ordinary councils, boards, and committees. There is already in existence an intermunicipal parks committee. How often the component municipalities disagree on the business that comes before that body is well known. The basic difficulty is that the parks, beaches and other properties to be improved are owned severally, and it is indeed seldom that any two municipalities of the four concerned can be induced to think alike on any action to be taken.

Would a regional parks board be in any better position? Each municipal or school board representative would hold his authority from some parent organization; and if the "parents" cannot agree wherein would be the benefit from this proposed transference of regional authority? We regret to have to say it, but the fact is that when Greater Victoria municipalities set their faces against amalgamation they left the whole region with little recourse other than to proceed as individual municipalities, each on its own path. The alternative of creating separate boards for everything breaks down on the issue of who will find the money.

Closing Serving Career

DUE to retire in two weeks' time from the federal posts of collector of customs and registrar of shipping, Mr. Gerald A. Yardley will carry with him the best wishes of Victoria and its associated communities. As arbiter of customs and excise regulations in their many forms and controller of vessels trading into this port, he has been an ever-present help and source of strength to the business life of the city. Most civil servants bring to their duties conscientious performance of the obligations. Mr. Yardley long has been among those specialists who excel in their chosen calling, and who have besides the faculty of remaining approachable, friendly and human in the exercise of wide discretionary and statutory powers.

The result has been a Customs house which marine and mercantile circles in the community have come to regard with confidence and with keen personal appreciation as well. It takes a good man to head a good team, and the port of Victoria has been fortunate on both counts not alone now but for a considerable period. Many will recall the late Mr. Davey in the same post, another civil servant of the same high calibre. Like his predecessors, Mr. Yardley may also prove a difficult man to follow in office, but the goodwill he has maintained and engendered should prove a valuable asset to whoever may be selected for elevation in the service.

During two and a half decades of concentrated service in a highly responsible position, Mr. Yardley has witnessed many changes in trade channels through the customs port of Victoria. The period embraced the pre-war era of an open and freely-trading Pacific bowl, the restricted mercantile traffic of war days, and latterly the re-opening of a growing volume of commerce on this seaboard. In all of that time the federal office has been in the best of hands. Mr. Yardley will certainly carry with him into retirement the sincere thanks of the community and best wishes from a legion of friends.

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

ON the lower level, the U.S. exhibition in Moscow apparently is a success.

On the upper level it has served primarily thus far to point up at least two primary difficulties in United States' and Soviet Russian attempts to reach any kind of an understanding.

On the lower level, we have the ordinary Russian housewife showering courtesies upon Mrs. Richard Nixon when she visits the big Moscow department store, GUM. They greet her as an outsider with whom they would like to be friendly.

She is the vice-president's wife, but her experience is no different than that experienced by hundreds of American visitors who have flocked to the Soviet Union this year.

Friendliness is a basic commodity of the Russian people. And so it has been exhibited at the U.S. exhibition. Russians pore over the Sears Roebuck catalogue. They argue the merits of white versus colored tiles in the home. American automobiles fascinate them. They seize upon the opportunity to talk with bi-lingual American guides.

But the differences also are basic. One not usually taken into consideration is the Russian language itself.

It is a rich language, many of whose words have no exact translation into a single English language synonym. Its letters are close to the Cyrillic as opposed to the Roman of most Western languages. It has 35 characters as opposed to the Western 26.

This correspondent has listened many times while a Russian translator searched in vain for the English counterpart to a word or phrase in a Russian speech.

The second misunderstanding, if so it can be called, arises from a total lack of trust on both sides. The United States recalls with justified bitterness the failure of past understandings with the Soviets where the Reds have used every legal loophole for their own advantage.

Anglo-French Argument

By ERNEST WAENGLER

IN the midst of a French educational reform, an argument has broken out over the teaching of English in French schools.

There are those who feel strongly that English, the language of world trade and — lately — of international politics, should receive greater emphasis as a compulsory language in all schools.

Others worry that an increase in English classes will be at the expense of French grammar and literature, which, they feel, is being too much neglected anyhow.

A third group advocates more teaching of Russian as tomorrow's most important second language for Europeans.

The conservative daily Le Monde, which comes out solidly on the side of the teach-more-English faction, quotes a joke that is currently making the rounds of Paris:

"The traditionalists make their children learn English, the optimists Russian and the pessimists Chinese. And who makes them learn nothing at all? The National Board of Education."

Tall men and women should be entitled to special tax exemptions because of their above normal expenses for shoes, clothing and extra-long beds.

This demand has been made in all seriousness by the Tall People's Association in West Germany on behalf of its several thousand members, males of 6 ft. 4 ins. and over and six-foot-plus females. The most prominent member is Rev. Paul Adenauer, the Chancellor's son.

The daily neswpaper Die Welt is worried that such a request for tax benefits might start a chain reaction and that soon the flat-footed, near-sighted and obese will band together for the purpose of making similar demands based on their special expenses.

Following an example set by Russia and Red China, Hungarian workers are being ordered to take part in organized mass calisthenics during work hours.

The official paper of the Hungarian Communist Party, Nepszabadsag, reports on what such "active rest periods" look like in the Budapest machine plant Villamos Kismotorgyar:

"Male and female workers perform their gymnastics in a happy mood and no longer sit around idly during rest periods. When they are finished, they seem like new people.

"It only takes them fifteen seconds to get back to work and for the next couple of hours they work with happy smiles on their faces.

"The idea of the active rest period will soon be introduced in all Hungarian factories . . ."

Reports From Ottawa

IF inconsistency is an occupational disease of politicians, Prime Minister Diefenbaker showed he had a case of it when he vetoed the appointment of Stanley Knowles as a labor representative on the Unemployment Insurance Advisory Committee.

Two years earlier Diefenbaker had offered to make Knowles speaker of the House of Commons, a job which pays $23,000 a year. Obviously he considered the CCF deputy leader so honorable, so fair, and capable of such impartiality that all parties could safely entrust the conduct of the Commons to his hands.

Now Diefenbaker has refused to appoint Knowles to an unpaid job on a minor board which meets briefly only a couple of times a year.

* * *

In 1957 Knowles preferred to participate in the deliberations of Parliament rather than accept the honor, emoluments and gag of the Speakership. He lost his Commons seat in the 1958 election and took a job as executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress.

It was as a union officer that the CLC recommended him for the insurance committee appointment. However, he is still deputy leader of the CCF, and for the last year he has been chairman of a joint CLC-CCF committee working towards the formation of a new political party embracing the CCF, CLC, farmers and liberal elements.

In an interview July 3 between Diefenbaker and Labor Minister Starr on the one hand, and CLC President Claude Jodoin and vice-presidents William Dodge and Knowles on the other, Diefenbaker voiced his strong disapproval of Knowles engaging in political activities as a union officer. Jodoin thereupon informed Diefenbaker tartly that whatever Knowles was doing politically was on instruction from the labor congress.

This was a "peace meeting" between Diefenbaker and the CLC, after a dozen instances in which the government either didn't consult the CLC on labor appointments, or ignored CLC recommendations.

It was agreed at the meeting that the CLC recognized the government's right to decide who would be appointed, and that the government recognized that consultation in good faith meant that if the government disapproved of CLC nominees for appointment to government boards, the government would so inform the CLC. There would then be further discussion, with perhaps further names being submitted by the CLC.

Diefenbaker wrote all this down, and then read his words back to the CLC officials. It appeared that the prickly prime minister and the politically-inclined labor congress had arrived at a workable compromise.

* * *

A few days later the CLC recommended Knowles and another CLC officer, Andy Andras, for appointment to the insurance committee. The government appointed Andras and S. A. Stephens, vice-president of the Pulp and Sulphite Workers Union. The CLC got no reply from Starr to its letter recommending the appointment of Knowles and Andras.

It would certainly appear that Diefenbaker vetoed Knowles' appointment on political grounds, and that the government is largely ignoring CLC recommendations on the same grounds.

It surely is a fundamental right of any citizen or organization to join or support or participate in the lawful activities of any political party, without being berated by the prime minister and penalized by the government.

This is a point the CLC might well make in its submission next year to the joint Senate-Commons committee that Diefenbaker has promised to set up to draft a bill of rights.

Starving Novelists

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THE Canada Council offers some figures to document its thesis that making a living in Canada by writing fiction is a perilous occupation.

In its role of dispenser of largesse to artists, the council has had to pry into the earnings of Canadian novelists. It conveys the dismaying intelligence that from a "good sale" of 2,500 copies, the book's author would receive $875. Even if a novel published in Canada reached the almost unheard-of sale of 15,000 copies, the return for this achievement would be perhaps $6,560.

These are small sums for great labors and talents of the mind. Canada simply does not have enough readers to keep full-time novelists on the job.

It is unfortunate that we cannot better sustain the worthy talents of those whose appeal is chiefly national, whose work is of this country and primarily for Canadians.

There is no need to worry about any geniuses who might spring up in our midst. They transcend national boundaries and will be read universally.

But a nation is richer for having a flourishing colony of its private speakers. Our colony is dispersed and, materially at least, does not flourish at $875 per novel.

Easier to Poach a Duke

By GREGORY CLARK

IN 1949, the British government founded what is called the Nature Conservancy which in the ten years it has been in operation has acquired with funds voted by the British parliament seventy-five "nature reserves" totalling 130,000 acres in all parts of the British Isles.

These are not parks. The public is not admitted. Only persons with proper reasons for wishing to enter an area for scientific observation, and qualified persons at that, are given permission to intrude upon what is an entirely undisturbed natural habitat for its flora and fauna in which to grow and live and die entirely free of the influence of that great improver, man.

These nature reserves are chosen because they contain particularly full representations of the vegetable and animal life indigenous to that part of Britain in which they are located, Britain having, for all its small size, a great variety of landscape and soil.

The breaking up, in the past forty years, of the great estates of the nobility of Britain, many of them dating back hundreds of years, is one of the main factors in the organization of the Nature Conservancy. What vast wealth has done for conservation in Britain must now be undertaken by public funds.

But they tell me it is now harder to get inside a nature reserve than it was to poach a duke's estate.

Information Map Sombre

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IT can scarcely have escaped the most casual newspaper reader that news of areas where day-to-day events may tip the balance between peace and war is coming at second or third-hand. The map of the world is beginning to show as many black patches, marking territory unknown, as it did before the age of exploration and expansion.

This is pointed up by the struggle going on in Iraq between the forces of General Abdul Kassem and the Communists. The news of that struggle, which can have decisive consequences in the Middle East, is being reported from Lebanon.

Just a year ago a pro-Western regime in Baghdad was erased. First-hand reporting has since then been made difficult, if not impossible.

On the information map the blackness is almost total in the vast land mass of China, in Tibet and in the Chinese dependencies of North Korea and North Viet-Nam. One or two British correspondents function under severe restraints in Peking, and occasionally Canadian, Indian or other free-world journalists are allowed to make carefully-guided tours. The press within China is a completely controlled propaganda press.

* * *

In Soviet Russia and the satellites, the last few years have seen some improvement insofar as travel and other facilities for Western journalists are concerned. But censorship of all outgoing dispatches — an exception is made for reporters accompanying Vice-President Richard Nixon — is rigidly imposed. Access to news sources is difficult. The Soviet press is a disciplined arm of government.

The satellites, conspicuously Poland, have seen some relaxation. But the pattern is still that of tight Communist party control.

The shading from dark grey to light grey takes in a lot of geography. Under Turkey's stern press law, editors have been given criminal sentences and criticism has been throttled. The press in Spain, Portugal and most of the Middle East is completely controlled or "guided." Nearer home, in the Dominican Republic, the press is the sycophantic servant of the Trujillo dictatorship.

In Formosa, South Korea and South Viet Nam, freedom of information is, to say the least, relative. Troubled and uncertain governments use persuasion or coercion to guide the press. And, as in other areas, if you want to survive you accept the guidance.

Especially disturbing are the signs in the West of doubt and distrust. In France, the Assembly has had before it several bills to curb the press. Since the upheaval of May, 1958, that brought General Charles de Gaulle to power, the tone has been subdued if not muted. Weeklies, such as L'Express and L'Observateur, that continue to be critical of aspects of the Algerian war are occasionally supressed.

* * *

The cold war has had a blighting effect. The tendency is to ask not what is news but what is good news for our side. America's allies are to be treated tenderly, and to expose their mistakes is less than good form.

Too often the West has shown itself ready to accept the barriers that have been put up. Far too little effort has been made to inform the public on what is going on inside China. Third-hand reports out of Tokyo are no substitute for what persistent analysis at second-hand might show.

Here at home critics have pointed to the way in which the news is increasingly molded by shrewd manipulators who consider it a commodity for political or financial advancement. With the techniques of Madison Avenue transported to government, information becomes a matter for reward or punishment to those who are for you or against you.

It is only because there is still a vigorous free press in Japan, India, the West that this catalogue of sins of omission and commission has significance. But no one aware of what freedom of information means to the survival of all the freedoms perhaps to survival itself can be in the least complacent after looking at today's sombre information map.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A company psychiatrist, employed to ferret out any frustrations among the employees, was checking up on a new worker.

"How do you get along with your wife?" he asked.

"Do you ever disagree with her?"

"There was a loud guffaw. "Oh boy, do I. All the time."

"Well," demanded the psychiatrist "how can you say you get along so well with your wife when you have such disagreements?"

B.C. Offers Police Aid To Kettle Valley Line

OTTAWA (CP)—The British Columbia government has offered to pay up to $50,000 in the next 17 months to help police the CPR's Kettle Valley rail line if the railway will keep its passenger trains rolling through the troubled Kootenays.

The offer was put forward Thursday as the Board of Transport Commissioners reopened hearings on a CPR bid to discontinue passenger train service on the line, running between Vancouver and Lethbridge.

For several years the line has been subject to intermittent dynamitings, attributed to the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect.

Bonner in Kelowna:

Sect Decision 'Good News'

KELOWNA (CP)—The government minister mainly concerned has welcomed the release by court order of the 77 Sons of Freedom children who have been forcibly housed at a government-operated dormitory at New Denver.

Attorney-General Bonner termed "good news" the decision of Nelson Magistrate William Evans to release the children on the promise of their parents to send them to school regularly in accordance with the education laws of the province.

LONG-SOUGHT

Mr. Bonner, here for the Social Credit party's bond-burning ceremony, said:

"It is very good news that the parents have been able to satisfy the court of their willingness to send the children to public schools regularly starting this fall.

"This is something that the government has been attempting to get from the Sons of Freedom for several years, in fact ever since the dormitory began operating in 1953."

He said it was particularly gratifying because the government realized when it made the decision to separate the children from their parents, that it was a "hard decision" and the core of the problem with the Sons, who have been blamed for recurring bombings and burnings in the Kootenays.

The attorney-general said the dormitory at New Denver will be maintained until fall on a "standby basis" in case it is needed again. After that he thought it might be converted to some other purpose.

Children Coming Home

came before Magistrate William Evans and took the traditional oath of bread, water and salt—an oath connected with Christ's Last Supper — that they would send their children to public schools.

Magistrate Evans, who generally handles Doukhobor cases in his office, moved the proceedings here into the Supreme Court chambers.

The children, he said, would start school Sept. 8 and continue to go to school until the age of 15.

It was for the benefit of the children that they be returned to the control of their mothers, he added.

The exceptions were Judy Kabatoff, 14, and her brother Peter, 12, whose mother is dead and father ill. Peter will be turned over to the grandparents and special arrangements will be made for Judy at her own request.

Magistrate Evans said the order is effective until Feb. 10, 1960, "when it will be extended for eight months, and thereafter from time to time if required."

"Should any parent fail to send their child to school as promised, the release order will be rescinded," the magistrate said.

The pascifist Freedomite sect, often accused of violence in the Kootenays over the years, objected to public schools because they feared their children would learn of war.

RCMP here indicated Friday that it was only a radical minority of the 3,000-member sect that kept the children at home.

The decision of the few to change their thinking was made after a council of women took over from the men as controllers of Freedomite affairs. The decision was not easy.

Mrs. Nasha Barisoff, a member of the council, said in an interview Friday there were some objectors. Some of the parents went along with the majority although they believed to this day that they should not give in to the government.

Her son had been in New Denver for 4½ years.

"We are not against education," she said. "We were against the teaching of war. If I could I would go to school myself."

Polio Total 93 Across Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Ninety-one cases of paralytic polio were reported in Canada this year up to July 25, the health department says, more than double the 43 cases reported in the same period last year.

Nine deaths have been reported this year so far compared to six last year to July 25.

More Losers Than Gainers In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market poked to a record peak Friday as trading dwindled to the slowest rate in more than a month.

Sharp upswings for some blue chip issues carried the popular market averages to new highs. Actually, price losers slightly outweighed the gainers.

Aircrafts, rubbers, coppers, tobaccos and drugs scratched out modest gains. Steels, chemicals, aluminums and oils generally receded. Motors were mixed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks pushed ahead 40 cents to an historic high of $235.10, breaking Wednesday's record by 10 cents.

Toronto Dull

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, in one of the dullest sessions in recent weeks, closed mixed to lower Friday with the exception of a few selected issues.

Speculative activity which had helped swell volumes in recent sessions was noticeably absent. As a result the final volume of 2,255,000 shares was the lightest in four sessions. Thursday's sales totalled 2,678,000 shares.

The industrial index lost a quarter of a point as a few key issues lost fractions. Base metals managed to post a half point gain while small advances went to golds and western oils.

Western oils, despite a small index gain, actually had a majority of losses although most changes were less than 10 cents or fractional in senior issues.

Montreal Quiet

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were irregular with most changes in a fractional range at the close of quiet trading on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges Friday.

Papers and refining oils showed a weak tendency. Brown dropped a point to 14 and Texaco Canada at 71 was off 2 while Canadian Oil was down ⅝ at 29. But Abitibi improved ⅛ at 38⅜.

Banks showed some strength. Provinciale was up one at 42, Commerce gained ½ at 66 and Imperial was steady at 77½.

In base metals, ¾-point losses were taken by Asbestos at 33 and Hudson Bay at 52½. Foods saw Lowney down one at 29 and Loblaw A up ¾ at 31.

General Dynamics was up 3 at 52, Dominion Glass up ¾ at 50¼ and Dofasco up ¾ at 50¼. Point gains were shown by Dow Brewery at 46 and Reitman's at 39 while Canadian Chemical and Cellulose improved ⅛ at 13½ and Massey-Ferguson at 15⅛ was up ⅛. United Principal Properties was unchanged at 3.55 and CPR down ¼ at 28.

By JIM TANG

While a last-quarter surge may have made many of the 1,893 fans at Memorial Arena forget the first three quarters, the cold fact remains that Victoria Shamrocks will have to be a far different club than they were last night if they are to see any post-season Inter-City Lacrosse League action.

Lacking almost everything, including fight, for 50 minutes, the Rocks were 10 goals in arrears with 10 minutes and five seconds left. Their seven-goals-in-nine-minutes rally against the eased-up Vancouver Carlings made the final count a reasonably-respectable 18-13, but it was a score which didn't really tell the story.

Shamrocks have probably never been worse than they were last night for three quarters. They lost almost every face-off, were outhustled for loose balls and often wasted the ball when they did get possession.

Worst of all was their defensive play. Geordie Johnston had trouble with long shots before he took himself out of the game at 2.48 of the second quarter with the score 7-1. Don Hamilton had little better success as he, too, suffered from an atrocious lack of protection.

Bigger, tougher and more determined, the business-like Carlings rolled over and around Victoria' checkers. Almost all the Rocks were remiss but the Whitey Severson-Ron Jay-Bert Bertoia line had the worst time of all, being on the floor for 11 of Carlings' goals.

In piling up a 16-6 lead in the first 50 minutes, Carlings looked like the club they should be with such fine lacrosse talent as Gordie Gimple, Bob Marsh, Bill Barbour, Bill Chisholm, Pete Black, Bob Parry and Bob Babcock, a sturdy blonde youngster who deserves a thought for the rookie award although he has played only about half the season.

Gimple, who led everyone with four goals and two assists, started them off with the game's first two goals. Chisholm, who has never looked better here, scored three times and everyone else, with the possible exception of lanky Fred Usselman, who had one of those nights, did his bit for the first 50 minutes.

LED ROCKS

Rookies Jim McNeill, who is some day likely to lead this league in scoring, and Tom Collett, the picture runner, led the Rocks in their scrappy if late, comeback. McNeill got three of his four goals within five minutes and Collett scored twice in the tardy rally, which was interrupted twice when Marsh and Chisholm kept the score from getting too close with fine individual efforts.

It's a situation which will almost certainly require four wins for the Shamrocks to make the playdowns. They play Carlings here Monday, then have home-and-home series with Nanaimo and the leading New Westminster O'Keefes.

Nanaimo has one game left with O'Keefes and two with Vancouver in addition to its two with Victoria while Carlings play O'Keefes twice in addition to the single game with Victoria and the two with Nanaimo.

Sports Hall of Fame Now Includes Reeve

TORONTO (CP)—Election of three former star athletes—Ted Reeve of Toronto, Jimmy Ball of Winnipeg and Frank McGill of Montreal—to the Canadian Sports Hall of Fame was announced Friday.

Reeve, Toronto Telegram sports columnist, starred at football and lacrosse. Ball was a noted sprinter and McGill an all-round performer whose sports included swimming and basketball.

Rookie McCovey Earns Spurs Helps Giants Hold Top Place

San Francisco Giants, led for the second straight night by rookie Willie McCovey, stayed on top of the tight National League pennant race last night, but both Milwaukee Braves and Los Angeles Dodgers stayed right on their heels.

McCovey made his first start for the Giants Thursday and hit two triples and two singles in a 7-2 victory over Philadelphia. He was at it again last night, singling home Willie Mays in the eighth inning with the Giants' winning run as they beat Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

Still half a game behind are Milwaukee Braves, who despite crippling injuries appear to be approaching the form that has won them two straight pennants. They won their seventh game in eight starts last night, blanking St. Louis Cardinals, 6-0, on three-hit pitching by Bob Buhl, his first complete game since June 11.

Milwaukee was held hitless for the first five inning by Dean Stone, but broke loose for five runs in the fifth. Joe Adcock hit a three-run homer and Hank Aaron belted his 28th of the season and fourth in three games.

The Dodgers got another fine pitching chore out of sidearming Don Drysdale in a 5-4 decision over Philadelphia. Drysdale scattered eight hits and struck out 14 for his 14th win of the season. In the other National League game, Cincinnati edged Chicago Cubs, 5-4, on a ninth-inning home run by Johnny Powers.

Kansas City Athletics watched their American League bubble burst under the old-time hitting power of the New York Yankees last night. The Yanks snapped Athletics' 11-game winning streak with an 11-2 decision while Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians continued their battle for first place.

White Sox parlayed nine hits and four errors into a 7-1 victory over Washington Senators to hold their one-game advantage over the Indians, who edged Baltimore Orioles, 5-1. Kansas City stayed in third place, but fell 9½ games off the pace.

PITCHERS BATTERED

Yankees battered four pitchers for 13 hits, including home runs by Yogi Berra, Elston Howard and Hector Lopez. Every Yankee got at least one hit, and Bobby Shantz got his fifth win in relief of Don Larsen.

White Sox got a four-hit pitching chore from 23-year-old Barry Latman, who was pressed into service because of Dick Donovan's ailing shoulder, Latman lost his shutout when Bob Allison hit his 27th homer for the Senators in the seventh inning. Earl Torgeson homered for Chicago.

Cleveland came from behind with two runs in the eighth on a bases-loaded walk and a sacrifice fly by Billy Martin to shade the Orioles.

By LARRY ROSE

Bill Hoogs of Berkeley, Calif., meets third-seeded fellow-Californian Dale Rohland today in the men's singles final of the B.C. lawn tennis championships following an impressive 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 win over Jim Jackson in Friday's play at Victoria Lawn Tennis club.

Taking the net at every opportunity, Hoogs had yesterday's semi-final match under control throughout. Only for a brief portion of the third set did his Portland, Ore., challenger threaten to extend the match.

Today's final is expected to produce the best tennis of the week-long tournament. It will be a best-of-five match beginning at 1.15 p.m.

Finals were reached in all events Friday.

One of the days' best individual performances was given by trim Val Williamson of Eureka, Calif. Mrs. Williamson, competing with only 10 minutes rest between matches, defeated Victoria's Diane Lawrence in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2. The convincing win earned her a berth in today's women's singles' final against top-seeded Patti Miller of Portland.

Miss Lawrence had defeated fellow Victorian Joy Wasson 6-3, 6-1 to enter the semi-final.

IN MIXED, TOO

Val also competed in the mixed doubles' semi-final, teaming with husband Ellis against Vancouver's Claire Lovett and Pasedena's Merwin Miller.

A late surge by the Lovett-Miller pair carried them into today's final although Mrs. Williamson had forced most of the early play with brilliant serves and net shots.

In men's doubles play, Rohland, competing under North Hollywood colors, and Miller defeated Ellis Williamson and Ross Hughes of Seattle. Scores were 6-1, 10-8, 6-2. Another similar match saw Bill Hoogs and Steve Chandler, also of Pasadena, down Harry Doyle of Sacramento and Don Stensaas of Modesto, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5.

Women's doubles were also played and finals in this event begin at 3.00 p.m. with Clare Lovett and Patti Miller favored over Sonia Berdan and Valerie Williamson.

Following is today's draw:

11.00 a.m.—Senior veterans singles semi-final, Dranga and Churchill vs. Todd and Bolton.

12.15 p.m.—Junior veterans doubles final, Hughes and Churchill vs. M. Miller and B. Cavendish.

2.30 p.m.—Women's consolation final, M. Bray vs. J. Woolison; Men's consolation final, Aldiguer vs. Weiles.

3.00 p.m.—Men's open doubles final, Rohland and Miller vs. Hoogs and Chandler; Ladies doubles final, Lovett and Miller vs. Berdan and Williamson.

4.30 p.m.—Men's senior veterans doubles finals, Cavendish and Brand vs. winner of Dranga and Churchill vs. Todd and Bolton; Mixed doubles final, Miller and Rohland vs. Lovett and Miller.

Last night's score: Wakeman-Trimble 14, Naval Vets 7.
Next games: Today, Eagles vs. Naval Vets; Wakeman-Trimble vs. Pages.

Wakeman-Trimble are having trouble gaining any ground in Senior Amateur Baseball League standings but, if nothing else, are steadily putting distance between themselves and last-place Naval Vets.

Scoring 10 runs in the final three innings, Wakeman-Trimble trounced Naval Vets 14-7 Friday night at Royal Athletic Park. The win gave Wakeman-Trimble a game-and-a-half lead over Naval Vets. They trail second-place Eagles by 2½ games.

Pitcher Jerry Booth had a big hand in last night's victory. Booth gave up 10 hits but, aside from the sixth inning when he gave up five runs, was rarely in trouble.

League play continues today with the weekly doubleheader. Eagles host Naval Vets in the opening game while first-place Pages meet Wakeman-Trimble in the nightcap.

Ladysmith Eliminated

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Kennewick emerged as the only remaining undefeated team in the elimination Northwest Regional Pony League baseball tournament Friday by turning back previously undefeated Richland, 5-4.

Linked with Richland as once-beaten squads were Walla Walla, which eliminated Ladysmith, B.C., 6-5, and Pasco, which erased Fairbanks, Alaska, 6-1.

In Saturday's games, Richland takes on Pasco and Walla Walla tangles with Kennewick. The loser of the first game will be eliminated. Walla Walla will be out if it loses to Kennewick.

FORWARD PASS HISTORY

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—The forward pass in college football was legalized in 1906 but it was seven years before Notre Dame made the pass a nation-wide sensation by crushing Army on tosses from the late Gus Dorais to Knute Rockne.

Senator Estes Kefauver cautioned baseball moguls yesterday that their efforts to help or hinder the proposed third major league will be watched closely by the U.S. Congress.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate monopoly subcommittee, aimed his remarks squarely at Warren Giles and Joe Cronin, presidents respectively of the National and American Leagues, and general manager George Weiss of New York Yankees.

The senator said he had read news accounts of what he called some "rather discouraging statements" attributed to all three. "I hope these gentlemen will have a change of heart," he added.

efauver said Congress and his investigating subcommittee will watch with close interest what happens when the founders of the new Continental League meet Aug. 18 with owners and officials of the American and National Leagues.

Big-car racing returns to Western Speedway tomorrow afternoon with the annual 30-lap Roy White Memorial as the feature attraction of the six-race card.

With big-car races scheduled tonight in Vancouver, officials at Western postponed tonight's meet until tomorrow afternoon at 1 p.m. to allow drivers to compete in both meets.

At least 17 cars are expected to enter the feature race, held in memory of a former driver at Western Speedway who was killed in an accident on the Malahat in 1956. Included will be leading drivers from Washington and Oregon, headed by Seattle's Del Fanning.

Seven of the 17 cars will be powered by the increasingly-popular Ranger motors, first introduced to the Pacific Northwest by Fanning.

Fanning, Paul Pold, Ray Wearn and Arlie Bonefield of Seattle, Jim Hartman of Portland and Corky Thomas of Victoria are among those driving the Rangers, which have won most of the big car races at Western.

Smokey Blake and Mel McGoy of Bremerton, Del Fanning, Jr., Bill Heller and Ray Laing of Seattle and Bill Hyde and Ernie Koch of Portland are other visiting drivers competing for the trophy won last year by Fanning, Sr.

King Fisherman

Lady Lands Biggest Tyee

There is a new leader in the tyee salmon division of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest.

Mrs. Leslie McDonald of Campbell River took over the top spot in the division with a 48-pounder caught Thursday morning in the tyee pool at the mouth of Campbell River on a Gibbs spoon.

Mrs. McDonald, who won a silver button award from the Tyee Club for the fish, won a boat last year as the top prize in the annual Legion Derby at Campbell River.

Senior 'B' Boxla Series This Year

Challenge from a team in Calgary has brought about the possibility of a Western Canada senior "B" lacrosse playoff this year.

Doug Fletcher of the B.C. Lacrosse Association announced that officials in Calgary have offered to host the B.C. senior "B" winners in a best-of-three series, and offered to post the necessary guarantee. If the guarantee comes through, it appeared certain that such a series would be held.

The Calgary club is made up of players from a field lacrosse league and members of former Rossland and Trail teams who have settled in Calgary.

Island Lawn Bowling Meet Next Week's Major Event

By JIM TAYLOR

George Bett has been the busiest man in lawn bowling for the past four years, but he'll have to be faster than ever this week to keep up with doings at five city greens.

George is draw-master, publicity man, errand boy and what have you for the 32nd annual Vancouver Island tournament Monday through Saturday. Always a rousing success, this year's tournament has already set records before a bowl has been rolled.

To begin with, Bett and the Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association have received a record 386 events in the men's and women's singles, doubles and rinks. Bett estimated that 99 percent of those entered last year are returning, and there has been an unprecedented heavy entry from the United States, notably Seattle and Oakland.

Entries have been so heavy from points outside Victoria that in some cases local entries have been withdrawn in certain events to make room.

There are 64 entries in singles. The men's doubles has Drawn 80 teams compared to 50 for the ladies, while the breakdown in rinks play shows 42 for the man and 28 for the ladies. The mixed rinks event is expected to draw about 64 entries.

NEW CHAMPION

Defending champion Bob Bindley of West Vancouver will not be back to defend his title in the men's singles event, so a wide-open race is anticipated for the new A. L. Urry Cup. The award is made in honor of the former Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association president and tournament manager.

Frank Webb, who won the F. S. Martin Cup with Seattle teammate Jim Langlow last year, returns to defend the men's doubles title with a new partner, Jim Miller. John Gavin's Kerrisdale rink returns in defence of the Fort Garry Cup.

Mrs. D. Caffyn of Burnaby, who won the James McMartin Cup for the ladies singles championship and was runner-up in the rinks, will be back in both events. Also returning are Mrs. G. L. Barr and Mrs. F. Atkinson of Kerrisdale, last year's doubles champions. Mrs. S. McDowell of Victoria West, last year's rinks winner, has not entered the event this year.

Men's singles begin Monday at 7 p.m. at Burnside, Canadian Pacific and Beacon Hill. Ladies singles begin Tuesday at Canadian Pacific and Vic West at 7 p.m., and the ladies' doubles get under way Monday at 9 a.m. at Canadian Pacific, Vic West and Beacon Hill greens. Men's rinks begin Monday morning at 9 at Burnside, Lake Hill and Beacon Hill.

Complete draws for these events will be published in Sunday's edition of the Daily Colonist. Ladies' rinks and men's doubles will begin Wednesday, and draws will be published as soon as they are available.

Wally Fea's Burnside rink won its first-round match yesterday in the B.C. lawn bowling championships in Vancouver. Fea, Charlie Fea and Arthur Beck beat J. A. Hazlett's White Rock rink, 24-19.

Rev. Joseph Jones of Victoria lost, 21-8, to Harvey Wheant of South Vancouver in singles play, and George Baker and George Asquith of Canadian Pacific lost, 21-19, to A. Ciro and W. L. Calderbank of White Rock in doubles.

MCC Defeats Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — England's Marylebone Cricket Club, playing without captain Denis Silk, opened its tour of Canada and the United States here Friday with a win over a Montreal District Amateur Cricket League all-star side.

Final score was MCC 192 all out, Montreal 106 all out.

Silk consulted a doctor Friday about a minor ailment and said later that he may play today against another Montreal team.

After winning the toss MCC batted first but quickly ran into trouble, losing all wickets but one for 88 runs.

Burglar Eight Years Old

Who Did It? 'Johnny Did It'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Who broke into 54 business houses here?

"Johnny did it," said Richard.

The loot from the 54 burglaries totalled only $200. One job netted only three cents.

"He doesn't steal for value," said probation officer Jim Armantrout. "He passes up valuable things for something pretty."

"He apparently does these things in an attempt to get attention he isn't getting at home," police Lieut. Phillip Brinkerhoff said.

The boy's father is unemployed. The family, which includes three younger children, is on relief.

Which boy? Johnny? No, they're talking about Richard.

"Johnny is a figment of the boy's imagination," Armantrout said. "He is Richard's other self."

Richard is being held at the county juvenile home. He will get a psychiatric examination and medical treatment.

Armantrout wouldn't reveal Richard's full name.

"He's not a criminal," said the lieutenant. "He's a disturbed youngster."

REV. R. J. YOUNG

Irishman Guest in Pulpit

An Irishman with a remarkable lack of accent arrived in Victoria recently to begin a month in the pulpit at Metropolitan United Church.

Rev. R. J. Young who has spent the last month in a Vancouver church, is minister of one of Ireland's largest Presbyterian churches, the Belmont Presbyterian in Belfast.

He is a graduate of Magee College in Londonderry, Trinity College in Dublin, and Presbyterian College in Belfast.

A veteran of the Second World War, he served for a time at Ramoan Church in Ballycastle. Dating from 1643, this church is one of the oldest Presbyterian foundations in Ireland.

Mr. Young is also a chaplain and director of Campbell College in Belfast.

Elvis Lulls Customer To Sleep

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Eileen Mulgrew, 17, went into the record booth of a downtown music store Thursday to listen to an Elvis Presley song. She woke up seven hours later, after being lulled to sleep by his "soft, sweet" voice.

The store was locked but she shouted and shouted and finally got the attention of a policeman who notified store manager C. J. Jebson, who came downtown and released her.

REV. JAMES GORDON

Minister Enjoys TV Fare

A visiting Presbyterian minister who is enjoying his first exposure to television in Victoria this week said he finds the TV fare available here "very good in quality and very broad in scope."

Rev. James C. Gordon, who will preach from the pulpit of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church during August in the absence of Very Rev. J. L. W. McLean, came here with Mrs. Gordon from a New Zealand parish where he was minister of Karori Presbyterian Church in Wellington.

He said he left Scotland seven years ago before television reception existed in the area in which he lived, and spent the interval in New Zealand, where TV is still not broadcast.

New Zealand, said Mr. Gordon, is much like Vancouver Island for climate, and its people share the same love of the outdoors.

Following a month at St. Andrew's Church Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will take a leisurely trip to the east and return to Scotland.

Cruel Officials Target in Case Of Unburied Lad

LONDON (AP)—A national outcry broke out Thursday over the skeleton of an orphan boy.

The skeleton lies in a packing case in a Glasgow laboratory. It was pieced together there by two professors from bones found on a Scottish hillside in 1956.

FIRST TRAGEDY

Tragedy first struck young Dugie when he was six. His mother and father died within a few weeks of each other.

Dugie and his elder brother and sister went to live with foster parents — Donald and Catherine Macpherson, who had a small farm.

Then officialdom stepped in and ruled that the Macphersons — Donald in his 60's and Catherine in the mid-50's — were too old to have charge of young children.

SPOKE GAELIC

Besides, they spoke only Gaelic and the children would need to speak English in adult life.

Dugie was moved to a succession of homes. He was bitterly unhappy.

Twice he tried to run off to the Macpherson farm. Once he was away two days, once three days. But each time they found him and brought him back.

BROKE LEG

In April, 1955, he set off again. On the hills above Dunoon he stumbled and broke a leg. Eleven months later a woman came across his bones.

That might have been the end of it but for Jean Mann, a Scottish grandmother who sits in the House of Commons.

Why, she demanded in the House Wednesday, should county council officials have the unquestioned right to move a happy child from its foster home?

NO BURIAL

And why was Dugie not given a Christian burial, but left to lie in a laboratory packing case?

The Scottish office defended officials who took the boy from his foster parents, saying it was in his best interests. And it disclosed that the Glasgow laboratory asked permission to keep Dugie's skeleton because it raised "a unique medico-legal issue."

There was no explanation of what this meant.

New Minister at Langford

Pastor's Old Church Covered by River

Rev. Gordon F. Dangerfield, recently inducted as pastor of Gordon United Church in Langford, once calmly watched his old stone church disappear beneath the flood waters of the St. Lawrence River.

Mr. Dangerfield was pastor of the Iroquois United Church in 1955 when the complete Ontario town was moved more than a mile back from the river to make room for the storage water of a nearby power project of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

His stone house and church, impossible to move, were abandoned to the rising waters.

Mr. Dangerfield never complained. Soon after the "tragedy" he was supplied with a new house by the Ontario Hydro Commission, one of the companies responsible for the mass move.

They also built a new Iroquois United Church.

Guest at First United

Guest minister for the next three weeks at First United Church will be Dr. J. A. Boorman of Montreal.

Dr. Boorman, who is in Victoria visiting relatives, is a member of the Faculty of Divinity at McGill University.

Born in Alberta, he obtained his early theological training at St. Stephen's College of the University of Alberta.

He completed post-graduate courses at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary in New York before filling pastorates at Wembley and Edmonton, Alberta.

His subject for his morning sermon at 11 o'clock will be "Come and See," and for the evening sermon at 7.30, Seminary in New York before

No Charges in Calgary Case

Judge Raps Mayor For Accepting Gifts

Officials' Conduct 'Improper'

CALGARY (CP) — Mayor Don Mackay and several other city officials were strongly reprimanded for improper conduct by the report of a judicial inquiry released Friday, but it did not recommend that charges be laid.

The report was written by Judge L. S. Turcotte of Lethbridge, appointed last fall by Premier Manning to investigate Calgary's municipal affairs.

GIFTS ACCEPTED

Judge Turcotte found that Mayor Mackay, Works Commissioner E. C. Thomas, Harry Walshaw, streets construction engineer, and former commissioner Ivor Strong "derived an improper advantage from their position as city officials by accepting gifts from persons having business with the city.

"However, it would not justify me in suggesting or recommending that a charge or charges be preferred against anyone under sections of the Criminal Code."

MANNING NEXT

Last say in the matter, however, will come from Premier Manning, also Alberta's attorney-general. A copy of the report has been sent to the attorney-general's department, which has the power to take legal action should it decide it is warranted.

The report was particularly critical of the mayor's acceptance of expensive Christmas gifts from Burns and Dutton and affiliated companies, along with a dishwasher from Stan Vineberg, a Montreal financier promoting an apartment project in Calgary.

FREE RIDES

The Burns and Dutton gifts included $400 in household items and free rides in the company airplane. Commissioner Thomas admitted receiving a television set, shotgun and furniture from company executives.

There was no evidence that the donors received favors from the city as a result of the gifts, Judge Turcotte said but "as I said at the beginning of the inquiry, it must appear to the public, as well as being a fact, that public business is not being conducted in a proper manner."

CEMENT CASE

The mayor's borrowing of 35 bags of city cement for use at his summer home in Banff and his neglect to return it until two years later was described as "an improper action."

He obtained the cement from the works department because he was the mayor. The city engineer would not have loaned the cement to an ordinary citizen."

FIRST INCIDENT

It was the cement incident which touched off the inquiry. The mayor's failure to return it until it was brought to public attention by newspaper stories resulted in a multitude of repercussions last fall including the mayor's censure by council.

Mackay, after promising a full statement Monday, including some indication whether he would stand for re-election in October, said the report appeared to be a "personal reprimand."

India Throws Out Red State Rulers

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Indian central government Friday ousted the entire cabinet of Kerala, the nation's only communist-controlled state, bringing it under direct control of Prime Minister Nehru's government.

Informed sources said new elections would be ordered in six weeks to give residents of strife-torn Kerala a chance to form a new state government.

New Mooring Space for Pleasure Boats

Nearing completion at Sidney is this $40,000 project to more than double mooring space for pleasure craft. Two of the new floats will be available for public use, while the third will be used exclusively by vessels wishing to clear Canadian Customs. The Pacific Pile Driving Company of Victoria, contractors, expect to complete the job by Aug. 13.—(Colonist photo.)

Row Up Red

Choirboys Turn Voyageurs

WINNIPEG (CP) — Twenty young oarsmen form Winnipeg's St. John's Cathedral boys' school set out today to retrace the route of the historic Red River voyageurs, rowing upstream into the northern United States.

The boys, ranging in age from 8 to 11, will man two 10-oar cutters for the 14-day trip. They will camp beside the river at night, in the tradition of the voyageurs whose trading expeditions ended about 100 years ago after steamboats began operating on the Red.

GREW FROM CHOIR

The boys' school is a supplementary institution operated by St. John's Anglican Cathedral in North Winnipeg. It grew out of the cathedral choir whose senior choirboys last year made headlines by attempting to row the length of Lake Winnipeg.

The schoolboys were to leave at 6.30 a.m. today. They are under the direction of two university students — Keith Bennett and Charles Gale.

ROW UPSTREAM

The youthful oarsmen will row upstream until the night of Aug. 8, when they will make their southernmost camp. With luck, they hope to reach Grand Forks, N.D., more than 200 miles south of Winnipeg by the twisting river route.

Fine for Bookmaking 'No Business Licence'

Serious Misconception Magistrate Warns

Fines for bookmaking offences are not licences to continue the practice, Magistrate William Ostler warned James Spencer, 1723 Denman, yesterday when he imposed a $500 fine.

Spencer had pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of allowing premises under his control to be used for the taking of bets.

"This would appear to be another of those cases where fines imposed in the past have been regarded as something of a licence," Mr. Ostler told Spencer, who had admitted four prior convictions for similar offences.

"It is a serious misconception that I urge you to rid your mind of at once," he continued. "This is a serious offence and if you continue to violate the law you are going to find yourself in serious trouble."

City detectives are investigating the theft of two transistor radios from a California car parked on the Empress Hotel parking lot.

The car was entered about 6 a.m. yesterday morning, the radios stolen, and a hole slashed in the upholstery of the seat.

Owner of the car is Laurence Dowden, San Francisco.

Seismograph on Moon U.S. Space Target

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal space agency has disclosed plans to rocket a seismograph to the moon in five or six years.

The instrument, if it made a successful landing, would help scientists learn what the moon is made of and how its crust behaves.

Plans for the lunar seismograph came to light in a list of contracts totaling nearly $16,000,000 which have been awarded.

Beer Pile Indestructible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Army is sending an airborne platoon to polish off what is left of 7,000 cases of seemingly indestructible beer abandoned by U.S. military forces on a remote Alaskan island in 1957.

How the army plans to carry out the assignment was a military secret although it was fairly obvious the GI's will not be allowed to do what comes naturally.

Sen. E. L. Bartlett (D., Alaska) got the army on the job after residents of Gambell, a small native community on St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea, said the situation had them over a barrel.

The natives have failed in two efforts of their own to destroy the beer dump.

The beer was left at Gambell when the military closed out a resupply mission and two bases. High transportation costs and difficult loading conditions made it too costly to cart away the brew.

Islanders made their first effort to destroy the beer promptly in 1957.

The beer was tossed into three big pits, doused with oil and gasoline and set on fire. The process was repeated three times. Then a tractor ran over the beer several times and the pits were covered.

Three months later, beer which survived the assault still was causing trouble. The Gambell city council said "inebriates have attacked several persons in their homes and much vandalism has occurred."

Garden Notes

Mildew Likes Dry Spell

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I imagine most home gardeners are familiar with the unpleasant powdery white deposit on the leaves and flowering stems of delphiniums, which denotes the disease called mildew or, more correctly, powdery mildew. The cause of this trouble is a parasitic fungus spread by microscopic spores which attack all parts of the topgrowth, even the flower petals, giving them a whitish appearance.

Although the fungus growth is superficial, mildew does much harm to the foliage and the plant may be badly crippled. Flower stems often become crooked and distorted, while the leaves look dull and lacking in vigor. The disease usually strikes from midsummer on, after the first flowering is over and, as there is an unfortunate tendency to neglect plants which have done their stint for the year, the plants go steadily downhill and the infection makes use of the delphinium as a base for launching attacks on other plants in the garden.

There seems to be a general impression that wet weather favors the spread of mildew, probably because mildew in the home is always associated with dampness. I am convinced, though, that powdery mildew in the garden is always worse in a dry spell. When plants suffer from dryness at the roots, the leaves become tired and unable to resist the attacks of the mildew fungus, which gets all the moisture it needs from the night dews.

It is obvious, then, that the first line of defence against mildew in delphiniums is to make sure they never go short of water. Superficial sprinkling doesn't do much good; what is needed is a really deep soaking from time to time, plus a mulch of peat, half rotted compost or even lawn mowings to keep the roots cool and moist.

In past years, I have always done this deep watering by taking the nozzle off the hose and allowing it to trickle very slowly over the roots of each plant for an hour or more.

This year, I am using a Ross Root Feeder—a spike gadget which fits on the hose for injecting water deep under the roots of plants and shrubs—and I am more than pleased with the response of the plants to this subterranean irrigation. It is possible with this gadget to inject fertilizer into the soil along with the water.

It is important to combat mildew with every possible weapon as soon as it puts in an appearance, for the plant needs every bit of foliage to build up its strength for next year's display of bloom. If weakened by mildew, the leaves cannot perform their function of plumping up the roots and next year's spikes of bloom are thin and puny.

Fortunately, the mildew fungus is not too difficult to eradicate. There are a number of materials which will do the trick, always providing that the spraying or dusting is done thoroughly and conscientiously.

Potato dust, tomato dust, and rose dust are all effective. Lime sulphur, two tablespoonfuls per gallon of water, will clean it out in short order and even common washing soda can be used at the rate of half a cupful per gallon of soapy water.

How Cruel, These British

NEW YORK (UPI)—Oh Boy, an entry on the ABC-TV summer schedule, is an imported product—a rock 'n' roll show milled in London. It is perhaps the cruelest punishment inflicted upon America by England since the burning of Washington.

★ ★ ★

Oh Boy is not, of course, a live show, but it is not precisely dead either. What it is, is kind of severely wounded. Its visual portions look a little like a series of apparitions shot through a dirty cheesecloth by a defective Brownie camera during a prolonged eclipse. It seems to me quite possible that major segments of the show were dredged from a moat.

★ ★ ★

Its sound is something else. Its sound—if that is the word for it—makes Oh Boy's video look like the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel.

After listening Thursday night for half an hour to the mouthings of some of its performers—Dickie Pride, Cherry Wainer, the Cutters, the Wreckers—I'm convinced the sound track is dubbed each week into one of the more obscure Berber dialects. By Rumanian-speaking Eskimos. With Finno-Ugric accents. Under the influence of Scotch. The liquor, that is.

Two girls, one with eyepatch (smart, she only sees half of show) . . . quartet singing, Honking sax . . . Lady at keyboard singing (first chorus) "Oh, oh, oh, oh" (second chorus) "Ready bab-eee, steady Babe-eee, oh, oh, oh, oh."

Young gentleman with guitar, needs haircut, motor running from hips down, he sings "ooo-eee" . . . Group of girls, they sing "babe-eee".

Gentleman, cherubic of face, pop of eye, he sings "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star, Nobody Knows How Cool You Are" (Cold Porter?) . . . More honking sax . . . Young man, obviously in pain, body quivering like Presley in aspic, he sings "Babe-eee" . . . More honking sax . . .

Gentleman standing and playing piano, he sings "Come on Pretty Babe-eee" (egghead of crowd, knows four words) . . . Tired blond young gentleman, he sings "I'll Cut You Down Like an Old Dead Tree" . . .

★ ★ ★

Perry Introduced Dinah to Italy

ROME (NANA)—Dinah Shore is THE attraction on the Via Veneto. I watched males from 6 to 60 scramble for her autograph. Ditto the signorinas. "Strange" mused Dinah, "I didn't know they knew me." They didn't—until she appeared as a guest on the Perry Como Show, which is seen in Italy. Pretty soon they will know Dinah in her own right. Her NBC series has been sold to television here.

★ ★ ★

Dinah and husband George Montgomery, with Bernice Korshak—what diamonds this Chicago girl has!—have been travelling through Europe in a you-guess-what-make station wagon, which was handed over to Dinah in Paris by Mr. Big of General Motors himself. "It causes more attention than I do," said Dinah, who filled it to the brim with Dior dresses—it's sale time. "I'm cutting down on the shows next season," she told me in the magnificent penthouse built by the Rossano Brazzis, for a cost (to date) of $250,000.

★ ★ ★

But, to return to Dinah. "Instead of 27 shows, I'll do 20. And I'm getting ideas in Europe for 'A Night in Rome,' 'A Night in France,' 'Capri,' 'Venice,' etc." The Shore business acumen was in full flower when we dined later in Angelino's. While we listened to the singer make love to us with "Quanta Si Bella Roma," "Ciao, Ciao, Bambina," Dinah wa writing down the names of the songs to sing on her show. If she could land the singer as well, she would score a coup. The Montgomerys took off next day with daughter Missy, for Israel.

★ ★ ★

They say on the Via Veneto that Gypsy Rose Lee is romancing 27-year-old Boyd Bennett. But the Gypsy insists she brought the Boyd along as a tutor for her young son, Eric.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

Paging Maurice Chevalier! The famed straw hat will adorn the head of Mario Lanza when he stars as Gerardi, the singer of operettas, in Austria at the end of the year. Gerardi, who was a terrific man with the girls, designed the straw hat. That brunette-turned-redhead-turned blonde, Zsa Zsa Gabor, will make love to Mario.

★ ★ ★

I learned in Rome that the picture George Sanders made with Ingrid Bergman for Roberto Rossellini was never released, it was that bad. I heard that George, who almost came to blows with Roberto, offered to buy the print but, as it turned out, he didn't have to worry.

★ ★ ★

I'm not sure if I read it right, but Jayne Mansfield, who doesn't care for clothes, has been named one of the five best-dressed women in the world by the fashion conscious Italians.

When Mario Aquavello, a Los Angeles businessman, held the North hand in the Men's Pairs of the All-Western Championships, he found a highly successful bid on the second round of the auction.

Most other Norths corrected to two clubs, but Mario raised spades and guided the partnership into an excellent four-spade contract.

East won two rounds of hearts, fired a diamond. Declarer took the ace on the board, and led the club jack—intending to play the ace from his hand, regardless of East's play. The latter had no way of knowing this, and not unnaturally, covered with the queen. West ruffed declarer's ace, and played the diamond king. South ruffed, led the ace and queen of spades, and then the last spade to dummy's king. The established finesse against East's ten of clubs enabled South to claim the rest.

East could have defeated declarer two ways. A heart continuation at trick three, forcing dummy to ruff, would prevent declarer from drawing West's fourth trump after that player ruffs a club and then switches to diamonds. And, of course, failure to cover the club would also defeat declarer, just as it defeated most of the players who got to five clubs on this hand.

Deaf Man Owes Life to a Kick

Thomas, 65 and deaf, was walking along the railroad tracks near here Thursday night when a freight train approached. Engineer W. U. Gaylord blew his whistle, but Thomas kept walking.

Gaylord sent his fireman to the front end of the locomotive as he slowed the machine. Just before the engine reached Thomas, the fireman punted. Thomas tumbled head over heels away from the engine.

'Sleeping Beauty' Blend of Candy With Cyanide

By CLYDE GILMOUR

Mother Goose, the way Walt Disney offers her to the world, is no longer either a mother or a goose but a sort of Hydrogen Age super-vulture with a folksy sense of humor.

"The Sleeping Beauty" (now showing at Capitol Theatre) is a staggering example of the perfected Disney formula in action.

Pre-sold on television Disney, by the way, is probably the only producer in show-business who gets paid for plugging his own products—it seems certain to pile up another fortune for its owners.

But there is still room for a few vocal-minority pangs of regret and apprehension among the ranks of old Disney fans and I'm one of them—who can't help feeling that the great man has gone too far with his patented blend of cornflakes, cotton-candy and cyanide.

"The Sleeping Beauty" was a slender and charming fairy-tale about a spellbound princess in an enchanted forest when the French author Charles Perrault published it in 1697 under the title "La Belle au Bois Dormant."

Almost two centuries later, Tchaikovsky set the story to music. The result was one of the loveliest ballet scores ever written.

COSTLIEST CARTOON

Now the tireless Disney and his squads of illustrators, technicians and other colleagues have transformed the fairy-tale and the music into the costliest ($6,000,000) animated cartoon in the history of the screen.

At the same time several dozen factories are alertly storming the retail shelves with unguessable millions of profitable Disneyfied by-products . . . Sleeping Beauty dolls, hats, ball-point pens, puppets and diapers, along with a swarm of comic-books and other printed versions of the story.

OLD REMEDIES

Both the Tchaikovsky music and the Mother Goose Story as told by Perrault have been swollen with repeated injections of those guaranteed Disney remedies; playpen laughter, sugary romance and horror.

The prince whose adoring lips arouse the sleeping beauty is a standard Disney hero, a cross between Sir Galahad of the Table Round and Jack Armstrong, All-American Boy.

Some of the drawings in this 75-minute film are conspicuously better than the Disney average. There is almost a 3-D depth and clarity in the scenes around the castle and courtyard.

'Free to Discriminate'

Court Halts Order Of Sale to Negro

SEATTLE (AP)—A judge yesterday set aside a state board's order requiring sale of a private home in an all-white district to a Negro couple.

Judge James Hodson of the superior Court held unconstitutional a 1957 Washington law which prohibited discrimination on racial grounds in sale of government-financed housing.

"A private individual acting in his private capacity is perfectly free to discriminate as he pleases," said the judge.

The state board against discrimination had directed U.S. Coast Guard Cmdr. John O'Meara to sell his home for $18,000 to a Negro mail carrier.

Judge Hodson held that O'Meara was acting as a private individual even though his home had been purchased with a Federal Housing Authority insured mortgage.

The state attorney-general's office said it would appeal.

Judge Hodson commented in his ruling:

"The mere existence of an FHA-insured mortgage on his house is far too tenuous a thread upon which to hang such a drastic invasion of his constitutional right to do as he pleases with his own property. The thumb of the government rests too lightly upon the scales."

Teeth, Drink Don't Mix On Birthday

HUDDERSFIELD, England (Reuters)—Bill Malbert says he won't be wearing his store teeth for a birthday drink today in the local pub.

"They made me wear them for my last birthday," Bill said. "The bottom ones jumped out and landed in my pint pot. Never again. I haven't worn them since."

Bill will be 105 today.

Professor Defends College Policy

Books, Brains Better Than Bricks

Campus Shift Would Harm Drive

Even if Victoria College could obtain the $8,000,000 needed to build a new campus now at Gordon Head, Prof. Robert Wallace said yesterday, "I would rather spend it on books and brains than on bricks."

Decision to expand on the present campus, with 120 acres at Gordon Head kept for other purposes, had been made by the "devoted and responsible" members of the college council, he said, and further argument about the location could only do harm to the campaign for community support in the expansion.

Prof. Wallace, speaking to the Lions Club, said 15 acres of the present 53 acre campus site would be ample for the buildings involved in teaching.

Even if the college waited for the building of a new campus at Gordon Head to become a real university—"and we want to be a real university tomorrow"—the teaching area would be only 12 acres, he said.

But in future years the 120 acres at Gordon Head would be needed for residential purposes, playing fields, research buildings and perhaps an auditorium and a stadium to serve the community as well as the university, Prof. Wallace said, and in this area there would be room for parking.

Immediate need, requiring full community support, was to raise $1,500,000 for the construction of new facilities on the present campus to make the college a real university as soon as possible, he told the club. (The provincial government will match the $1,500,000 and the Canada Council will contribute $300,000.)

Whether the institution remained Victoria College or was called the University of B.C. in Victoria, Prof. Wallace said, was not unimportant, but not the really important issue —"What we want to do is establish the best liberal arts college we can in the next few years."

"Can we be a university and still call it Victoria College? Certainly! Certainly!" he said.

He cited several well-known universities called colleges. But, on the other hand, he cited examples of universities giving up the name of "college" for prestige and money-raising reasons.

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Staff Reporter

KELOWNA—Premier Bennett will turn archer here tonight as he touches off the "bondfire" which will send up in smoke some $85,000,000 worth of bonds retired by the Social Credit government in fulfilment of an election promise to pay off B.C.'s direct debt.

The premier will use a bow to fire a flaming arrow to ignite the 40-foot-square, 25-foot-high bonfire which will be made up of the bonds, old straw and lumber, all liberally soaked with inflammable oil.

There are still some $98,000,000 in bonds outstanding in the direct debt but the government has provided money in the sinking funds to pay these off as they become due between now and 1977.

Hot air plagued the start of the "bondfire" celebrations scheduled to start at 8 last night.

First event scheduled to celebrate the proclamation of the end of the direct debt was a band concert here by the 71-piece B.C. Lions junior band from Vancouver but it had to be postponed when three buses carrying the B.C. Lions Band and another 80 members of Optimist Pipe Band and the West Vancouver Pipe Band were stalled near Princeton by vapor locks in the gas systems.

The vapor locks were caused by the 85-degree heat and the mountain travel combining to overheat the vehicles and create too much hot air in the gas system.

Scores of Cars Stalled

Scores of cars, many of them on their way here for the "bondfire" celebration have been stalled along the Hope-Princeton highway in the last two days with the vapor locks. One of the unfortunate ones was Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who managed to arrive in good time, however, because he left a day early.

All but two provincial cabinet ministers will be here today for the celebrations which are being combined with Social Credit's 7th birthday party. Works Minister W. N. Chant is holding down the seat of government in Victoria and Agriculture Minister Newton Steacey is attending an agricultural conference.

They are on their way along with hundreds of other Social Crediters.

There was an air of excitement here among Social Credit officials as the big hour drew closer but Kelowna residents didn't appear to take much interest. Few questioned even knew where the bond burning would take place.

But Social Crediters expect to have 1,000 people here today for the celebrations. Some plan to travel all night. Only a few persons are expected from Victoria. Well known personal friend of the premier's Waldo Skillings arrived yesterday afternoon from Victoria.

Ex-Mayor Hume There

Former Vancouver mayor Fred Hume is here. So are former finance minister Einar Gunderson, who was unable to get elected to a seat in the House, and Jim Behan a vice-president of the CNR.

Twenty-nine mayors and reeves of the Okanagan and adjoining districts will attend today.

The armored car carrying the bonds from Victoria arrived at 6.15 p.m. yesterday and the bonds were stored overnight in vaults of Canadian Bank of Commerce. The bonds will be loaded onto the barge at the Aquatic Club wharf at 5.30 p.m. today. Stan Campbell, MLA for the Fort St. John district, arrived last night with two carloads of celebrating Social Crediters.

The grand parade of official cars, majorettes, seven bands, floats and a few gags that are being thrown in by people, who so far will only hint about them, is scheduled to start at 7.30 p.m. Giant cartons of serpentine ribbon will be distributed to parade watchers and by the time they get finished throwing it at parade officials Kelowna should look like New York after a ticker tape parade.

Paper Hats, Balloons

There will be paper hats and balloons for the youngsters.

After the parade there will be an aquacade show followed by the bondfire. Social Crediters today are celebrating the paying off of the provincial direct debt but other political parties call the Kelowna celebrations "a delusion and a show, a hoax, a cheap political fraud."

All will admit that Premier Bennett has paid off a great amount of public debt. Opposition members claim $165,000,000 but the premier talks of $190,000,000 which was the amount shown in the last budget before Social Credit took office but not the actual amount of the debt when the Socreds took office seven years ago today.

The opposition claims the premier merely stopped borrowing in the name of the government and had the government agencies borrow it instead, with the government guaranteeing the borrowings much like a co-signer to a bank loan.

Borrowed money then shows as a contingent liability and not as a direct debt. The contingent liability of B.C. is now around $500,000,000.

Meanwhile all eyes today are on Kelowna and people all over British Columbia are wondering if today the premier will announce some of the benefits he hopes to give them with the $25,000,000 of debt charges money.

Novices But Still Champs

Pipes Skirl Today

There'll be skirling pipes and swinging kilts as massed bands from several points in B.C. and the U.S. march at 3.30 p.m. in Macdonald Park today.

The display will be one of the highlights of the 22nd annual Highland Games, sponsored by the Victoria Highland Games Association.

Spectators will see a near-record entry of more than 300 compete in dancing and piping, the hammer-throw, caber-toss, tug-of-war and track and field games.

The games start at 9 a.m. and the morning program is filled with dancing and piping events.

Robert Strachan, leader of the opposition in the legislature, will officially open the games at 2 p.m.

At least nine bands will take part in the grand march past following the pipe band competition. They include Canadian Scottish, Canadian Scottish Cadets, Seattle Pipe Band, Eugene, Ore., Pipe Band, Seaforth Highlanders, Seaforth Highlanders Cadets, Nanaimo Pipe Band, Victoria Schools' Pipe Band and Victoria Girls' Pipe Band.

Friday Hottest

Cooling Breezes Expected Today

Sea breezes are expected to bring some lasting relief today to Greater Victoria which has sweltered in a heat wave since Wednesday.

"It looks as if we've had our period of really warm weather for the time being," weatherman William Mackie said last night.

Friday was the hottest day of the year, with an official high of 86.1 degrees shortly after 4 p.m.

AROUND 80

Mr. Mackie said cooling breezes off the water will drop temperatures to the low 70s today. But sheltered inland locations can expect the mercury to climb up around the 80-degree mark.

"It will still be warm but those areas along the shore will be noticeably cooler," he said.

First sign of relief from the heat wave came with a sea breeze in mid-afternoon Friday. All day the beaches were crowded with swimmers.

SUNNIER, WARMER

Sunshine for the month totalled 383 hours and six minutes, just over 47 hours above average. Precipitation was .27 inches, slightly more than half the average rainfall. And the mean temperature was 61.9 degrees compared with the average of 60.

Friday's high of 86.1 degrees was a record for July 31. The previous record was 85.3 back in 1913. The hottest ever July day here was a sizzling 95.2 on July 17, 1941.

Despite the heat, there has been no undue use of water here, according to Ronald Upward, Greater Victoria water district commissioner. He said:

Meteor Show To Light Sky

Victoria residents may be treated to a display of fireworks in the sky Aug. 12, if weather conditions are favorable. The Dominion observatory at Ottawa said 30 to 50 meteors an hour could be observed that night. Little Saanich Mountain observatory said it is difficult to determine how many will be in view locally.

Share Water, 'Voice' Urges

A Saanich police car equipped with a loud hailer toured through part of the municipality for three hours last night, asking residents to use as little water as possible.

'Funny Money' All Ready

B.C. Federation of Labor has prepared "funny money" to be distributed at Premier Bennett's bondfire. They bear this inscription: "The public of the province of British Columbia promise to pay the moneylenders the sum of $449,000,000 of existing debt still owing and unpaid by the agencies of your Social Debtnik Government."

Young Rider Hurt

A Glen Lake girl, forbidden to ride horseback after her sister was injured in a riding mishap a year ago, was a victim of a similar accident last night on a horse named "Dynamite."

Darin Lacroix, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Lacroix of Englewood Road near Glen Lake, was taken to hospital by ambulance after she was thrown from the horse described as "a favorite" near her home about 7.30 p.m.

PARENTS RELUCTANT

She had secured her parents' reluctant permission to go riding with two girl friends, Sandra Chidlow, 12, and Sheila Middleton, both of Luxton Road, after being kept from riding for a year.

SEVERE BUMP

She suffered a severe bump on the head and other lacerations, but was later reported in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital.

A year ago, her 12-year-old sister Patsy broke her wrist in a fall from a horse.

Big Meeting A Mystery

Premier Bennett has invited major B.C. investment dealers to meet him Monday.

But, one of them said yesterday, "we are all wondering what it's all about. There is only one fellow who can tell, and that's the premier."

That appeared true at the legislative buildings, where the best-informed sources said they couldn't confirm such a meeting was planned.

Motels Join to Fight Tourist Shortage

Motel owners of Greater Victoria yesterday moved to end the present slump in their business caused by a serious shortage of tourists.

And Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce, warned "Victoria is going to have to dig for tourist business in the future."

SEAFAIR CROWDS

The motel owners made plans to advertise Victoria's attractions in Seattle immediately to reach the thousands of people visiting that city for the annual Seafair, which begins today.

Decision was made at a special meeting of the Victoria branch of the Auto Courts and Resorts Association of B.C.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Mr. Lane appealed to the operators to avoid duplication by pooling their advertising budgets and to reach a wider audience through the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau.

REASONS WHY

Blamed for the sharp drop in the tourist industry this year were:

Overlapping advertising, poorly distributed.

Lingering effects of last year's ferry strikes.

"There-and-back-in-one-day" advertising by ferry companies.

High cost of bringing a car across to Vancouver Island on ferries.

Lack of attractions to interest tourists in visiting Victoria, and

Failure of the provincial government to seek tourist business actively.

WHAT'S HERE?

"What do we have?" he asked. "Can they look at scenery at night? It's not everybody that is interested in old buildings."

Henry Kirstens, Colwood Auto Court, objected strongly to free provincial parks.

"Why can't the government put up free motels and put you out of business entirely?" he said. "I hold no brief against camps, but charge them for it."

"We've been taking tourists too much for granted," Mr. Lane said. "But at long last we're beginning to wake up to the fact that the honeymoon is over."

Mr. Lane said appropriate action might take the form of a "Salute to Tourists Day" similar to one held in Vancouver Friday.

"Real benefits" for tourists might include a 10 per cent discount on accommodation for a three-day stay or longer, free parking and other privileges.

Strikers Stop Loads Of Duncan Lumber

Seven large trucks carrying lumber consigned by a Duncan mill to a Vancouver dealer were stopped Friday night by striking woodworkers as they were driven off two ferries at Horseshoe Bay, near Vancouver.

Police stood by to prevent violence as massed ranks of members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) blocked the way at the exit from the ferry ramp.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: It's that time of year again and I need help. For years my husband has taken the family on a camping trip the last two weeks in August. We put up with it but I can't honestly say anyone enjoys these outings but him.

Last year I announced I was through carting dishes, bedding and cooking utensils and washing clothes by hand in an old tub. I explained a person has to be cracked to leave a comfortable home and work like a truck horse and call it a "vacation."

I told him I want to rent a cabin with running water, inside facilities, refrigerator, and complete kitchen. He said "O.K. next year we'll do it that way."

Now he has started to talk tents again. The kids are fed up, too, and say they'd rather stay home if we can't get a cabin. What do you suggest?—MRS. HAD IT AND HATE IT.

Dear Had It and Hate It: Tell Nature Boy you and the kids have been good sports for years and now it's his turn. Make it plain if he wants a family vacation he'll have to put up with running water, indoor plumbing and all the modern conveniences.

If he refuses, tell him you'll be waiting at home with the mosquito lotion when he's finished tenting on the old camp ground.

One of Those Boobs

Dear Ann: I'm one of those boobs who got married too young. I eloped at 17 against the advice of my parents. Three years later I found myself with two sons and a divorce.

My ex-husband re-married and took the boys because he said they'd be better off with him. I couldn't offer them anything so I agreed. Three weeks later he brought them back. His new wife didn't want them.

I was desperate. My parents offered to adopt them and it seemed the best way out. Now the boys are three and five years old and they are getting out of hand. They talk sassy to everyone and no one corrects them. When I try, my father says I should mind my own business because they are HIS children, not mine. What can I do? I am heartsick over this.—FOOLISH MOTHER.

Dear Foolish: What a price to pay—and you may have to keep paying for years to come. When you permitted your parents to adopt the boys you forfeited your rights as a mother.

Your only chance is to get across to your dad that lack of guidance and discipline is bad for the boys. He undoubtedly has no respect for your views so ask your clergyman to talk to him for the sake of the children.

Worrying Me Crazy

Dear Ann: My problem is about to worry me crazy. For four years I went with a fellow I will call Paul.

Six months ago we became engaged. We broke up over nothing two months ago. I asked why he wanted his ring back. He said he didn't know.

Last week he became engaged to a girl he hardly knows. I'm so sick over this I can't eat or sleep. If I could hear from his own lips that he loves her and not me I would feel better. As things stand I can't accept it. Please help me—MILLY.

Dear Milly: Why must you hear it from his own lips? Isn't it enough that he took the ring from you and became engaged to someone else? Stop punishing yourself. Accept the realities of the situation and write him off.

Confidential to Hole in My Heart: You also have one in your head. Stop buying her gifts and paying her rent and see how long s h e sticks around.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

What's Cooking?

Twist of Wrist Makes a Meal For 'Bachelors'

By LOUISE MOORE

Summer bachelors—Don't whatever you do, overwhelm them with sympathy. You may need a little of it yourself by end of summer.

Batching it isn't the chore it used to be for these grass-widowers. What with every known plug-in from coffee pots to frying pans and canned, packaged and frozen foods, a man can easily fend for himself. And once he knows the satisfaction of perparing bang-up meals, he will be so smug, feel so self-sufficient, you'll wish you had winterized the summer cottage.

NO RULES PLEASE

Don't tack up a list of do's and don'ts before you leave if you want another summer at the cottage. A man likes to do things in his own sweet, uninhibited way once he sets foot in the kitchen.

Bless his heart, he won't be afraid of adventure. He will taste and test and add spices and herbs, wines and mushrooms and a host of other ingredients you would never think of using in concocting the simplest dish—but he usually comes up with a dandy.

Frozen meats, fish, vegetables and fruits—even whole frozen dinners—come to his aid, but if he prefers to start from scratch and cook big steaks or a pot roast, leave a meat tenderizer handy in case he gets stuck with a tough cut.

What to serve won't be a problem even for the lazy summer bachelor. With a twist of the wrist, he can whistle up anything from juice for the starter to fruit for the finale. So leave a good can and bottle opener handy. (You'll know how many he opens by the litter on the floor come next September.)

However, when he invites a few cronies to share a meal he will want to dish up a specialty, so here are a few he can call his own.

Have 1 pound calves liver thinly sliced. Dip lightly in seasoned flour and brown on both sides in 3 tblsp. butter. Add any extra seasoning necessary of salt and pepper, ¼ cup chopped celery, ¼ cup chopped chives or a little minced green onion if chives are not available and ¼ cup good red wine. Cover and simmer ever so slowly on top of stove or a moderate oven (325 F.) about 25 minutes. Serves 4.

VEAL AND PINEAPPLE

For one serving, choose a veal shoulder chop—two if you are hungry—and brown both sides in 1 tblsp. butter or margarine. Sprinkle with salt, and arrange a slice of canned pineapple on top. Add a little pineapple juice — perhaps 2 tblsp. of it — then cover pan and simmer slowly about 45 minutes or until chops are tender.

Serve with frozen potato patties—get them at the frozen food counter. Frozen green beans or spinach if you prefer it or broccoli and raw vegetable sticks or a big salad, and fruit and cheese for dessert.

KIDNEYS AND MUSHROOMS IN WINE SAUCE

To serve 2 generously, fry 1 good sized onion and ½ green pepper diced in 1 tblsp. bacon fat. In another pan sautee ½ pound fresh mushrooms in 1½ tblsp. butter (just wash, don't peel mushrooms). Remove membrane from 6 lamb kidneys. Cut in half lengthwise and remove any gristle. Cut each half in 3 pieces and rinse thoroughly in cold water.

Add the kidney's to the onion mixture in pan along with ½ cup stock—make it with a boullion cube if you wish, ¼ cup light cream or milk, ¼ tsp. paprika, salt and pepper to taste. Simmer about 15 minutes. Thicken to suit taste with flour and water paste and add the cooked mushrooms and ½ cup sherry.

Simmer gently 10 minutes. When done, mixture should be not too thin nor too thick. Serve with brown rice, a mixed green salad and fruit for dessert.

Signing the Register

Signing the register in St. Marks Anglican Church after their wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alan McQuarrie with Cannon R. Willis. The bride is the former Maureen Elaine Comer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Comer. The groom is son of Mrs. Margaret McQuarrie.—(Photo by Kandid Kamera.)

It's easy to take copper plumbing for granted. Copper won't rust, resists corrosion . . . it lasts for years and seldom, if ever, needs repairs.

Since the early days of electricity we have depended on copper wiring to bring us light and power.

Beautiful, durable copper, one of the oldest metals known to man . . . and the newest! For the red metal of the ancients has never been more useful than it is today—as a functional and decorative material in smart, modern settings like this.

Copper is richly colourful and, with the brass and bronze alloys, provides a bright array of warm colours for hardware and ornamental accessories in the home. Copper won't rust...resists corrosion... is ideal for plumbing and heating systems, for screens, weatherstripping, eavestroughing and downspouts.

Inco produces fine quality ORC* Brand Copper from the ores mined near Sudbury, Ontario. And Canadian manufacturers use this copper to make hundreds of beautiful and durable products of copper, brass and bronze.

Mrs. Nixon Visits Camp

Young Red Pioneers Like Scouts, Guides

SVERDLOVSK, U.S.S.R. (UPI) — Mrs. Richard Nixon visited a Young Pioneer camp yesterday and saw that in some ways it was like a Girl or Boy Scout camp in the United States.

In hallways of the dormitories were slogans such as "you must be prepared."

Mrs. Nixon looked at the young campers' notebooks in which were written the rules of the Young Pioneers, which is a Communist party organization for children:

"Love motherland, work well, be good in studies, and be well behaved."

There were also slogans on the bulletin board which said: "Keep in mind always the life of Lenin."

The schedule that Mrs. Nixon read for the Young Pioneers was: 7.30 a.m.—Get up for flag-raising and exercises; 8.30 a.m.—breakfast; 9 a.m.—clean rooms and work in the garden; 10 a.m.—more exercises (gymnastics) followed by story telling, dancing or swimming.

Mrs. Nixon met one 13-year-old girl who was painting a picture of an apple in the arts and crafts class.

Mrs. Nixon said: "I have a little girl called Patricia who is 13 years old just like you."

PURPLE STAR

The August meeting of Victoria Purple Star Lodge No. 104 Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association will be held on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street.

Boden-Whale

Wedding Dress Made by Mother In Recent Rite

All the dresses, hats, veil and coronet of the bride and her attendants were made by Mrs. Frank Whale for her daughter's wedding on July 29.

Genevieve Isabelle Whale and Mr. Norman Roy Boden were married at an evening service at the Victoria Truth Centre, with Rev. Emma Smiley officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Whale of 609 Toronto Street are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mrs. Irja DeKelver, 1516 Stanley Avenue, and the late Mr. C. Boden.

The bride wore a formal gown of lace over taffeta trimmed with lace daisies round the neck and skirt. Her illusion veil was of nylon leaf, surmounted by a rhinestone trimmed coronet.

The Misses Louise and Nannette Whale, sisters of the bride, wore pink crystal gowns with overskirts of net and chiffon, and hats of chiffon roses. They carried bouquets of pink rosebuds and lily-of-the-valley.

A reception was held afterwards at the Gorge Vale Golf Club, and Mrs. Smiley proposed a toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon on Lulu Island and a motoring trip to Portland, Oregon, the bride was dressed in a rosewood sheath dress with matching jacket and hat, an outfit she made herself.

On their return the young couple will live at 527 Selkirk Street.

Slade-Edwards

Married recently in the RCAF Chapel, Bagotville, Quebec, was Ann Edwards, daughter of Cpl. and Mrs. Tomas Hadon Price, RCAF station, Bagotville, to LAC Frederick William Ernest Slade, RCAF, only son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Slade, 3208 Shelbourne Street, Victoria.

The bride wore a white net ballerina dress with matching bolero. Her headdress was a tiara of sequins and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations. She was given in marriage by her father.

The groom was supported by fellow RCAF members. His best man was Mr. Alan Buckem and Mr. William Smith was usher.

Garden-Christensen

Annie Janet Christensen and Mr. Norman John Garden were married recently in St. Mark's Anglican Church, with Canon Robert Willis officiating.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Viggo Christensen of Victoria, was given in marriage by her father. Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Garden of Regina, Sask., are the groom's parents.

Miss Christensen wore a graceful three-quarter length gown of white nylon chiffon and taffeta. Bodice was styled with scalloped neckline outlined with sequins, long lily-point sleeves and a bow at the skirt. A chapel length veil was held with a pearl and diamond coronet and the bouquet was three large orchids with stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Sisters of the bride, Miss Inga Anna Christensen and Miss Ulla Karen Christensen, were bridesmaids. They wore matching pink and mauve dresses of nylon chiffon over floral glazed cotton and carried gardenia and stephanotis bouquets. Richard Hamilton Anderson was best man and ushers were Ross Grant Buchanan and Larry Dean Westman.

Following a reception in Glenshiel Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Garden left on a wedding trip in the state of Washington.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Garden and Myrna and Isobel Garden, parents and sisters of the groom from Regina; Mrs. E. Christoffel, Lewvan, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Christensen, Shaunavon, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. L. Lance, Clive Lance, Vancouver; Miss Inga Christensen, Vancouver, and Brian Rasmussen, Campbell River.

107 PARTS, TIRES and ACCESSORIES

POSITIVE CURE FOR BALDNESS

Take a look at those smooth tires of yours, those bald spots are signs of danger to yourself and others. But if you bring them along to us before it's too late, we can give your tires the GUARANTEED GOODYEAR TIRE (FACTORY APPROVED) RETREAD. But don't wait till they are worn to the canvas or structurally damaged. If in doubt bring them to us. We will not waste your time or money.

IT'S TRUE
The cost of a retread is ½ the cost of a new tire. We are proud to say we have the finest factory approved retreading equipment in Western Canada.

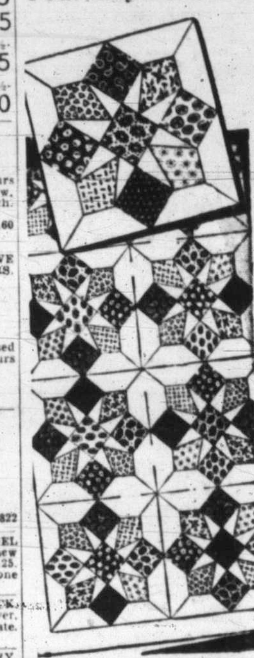
Four Gay Patches



by Laura Wheeler

Colors run riot in this quilt made of scraps—the more, the merrier. It's just four patches.

Easy to piece. Use one block alone, for a gay pillow cover! Quiltmaking is easy! Pattern 784: Chart, directions, pattern of patches; yardages.

Send thirty-five cents in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this pattern to Laura Wheeler Needlecraft Department, The Daily Colonist, 60 Front Street West, Toronto, Ont. Print plainly pattern number, your name and address.

Send for a copy of 1959 Laura Wheeler Needlecraft Book. It has lovely designs to order: embroidery, crochet, knitting, weaving, quilting, toys. In the book, a special surprise to make a little girl happy—a cut-out doll, clothes to color. Send 25 cents for this book.

Princess-Pretty

Marian Martin

Printed Pattern 9183: Misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20. Size 16 dress takes 4⅛ yards 35-inch; jacket 1⅜ yards.

TOPS

This house is less than two years old and has top location—Cadboro Bay, on a quiet street near the school. Built by one of the leading builders to an excellent plan. N.H.A. but with many special features. It is spacious—three bedrooms and a total of 1,260 sq. ft., with a full high basement. It is attractive—in outside appearance and landscaping; in the living and dining rooms which have individuality; and in the very well planned kitchen with its breakfast nook with sea view and its special laundry fixtures. It is, in our opinion, the best buy in town with full price, including the N.H.A. mortgage, of only $17,000

SPACE, DIGNITY AND COMFORT

You must see this stately family home located in Fairfield, one block from the sea. The rooms are spacious, with inlaid oak floors. The entrance hall is 21 feet long and proportionately wide. Both living room and dining room are 21'x16'. Brick fireplaces in both the den and living room. To complete the main floor there are a three-piece bathroom, cabinet kitchen and utility. Climbing the handsome stairway you'll find four large bedrooms with enormous walk-in closets, a spacious hall and four-piece bathroom. But this is not all. Up another carpeted stairway there's a big finished attic for the children's hobbies and projects. If that's not enough, let's look at the basement. Here you'll find a big rumpus room, laundry and an automatic oil-fired hot-water heating system. One look at the joists and foundations will convince you that this home is as sound as a bell and solid as a rock. The yard is small and easily kept in order. Of course there's a garage. May I show you this gracious home without any obligation to $14,950 buy.
The price has been drastically reduced for quick sale. Easy terms or trade-in your bungalow as down payment.

Sour Milk, Cucumber Soup

How Reds Beat Heat

MOSCOW (NANA) — With the thermometer well over 80 in one of this capital's hottest summers in years, Muscovites are being told to watch out for heat and sunstroke.

Dr. Pyotr Gotovtsev, writing in the popular newspaper Moscow Pravda, warns that even vacationers lying on one of the many beaches along the Moscow River can get a touch of the sun.

To avoid ill effects, suggests Dr. Gotovtsev (whose name means "be prepared"), Muscovites should cut down on the heavy meat soups most Russians love, bolstering their diet instead with two glasses of sour milk for breakfast and buckwheat cereal, cucumber soup and fruit at lunch.

It's a mistake, says the doctor, to take a frequent sip of cold water on a hot summer's day. Instead of quenching the thirst, he warns, it will "weaken the organism and place an additional load on the cardiovascular system." Fruit or an infusion of Japanese mushroom tastes better and is better for you.

The one drink that should be avoided, Dr. Gotovtsev urges, is alcohol. "It is necessary categorically to refrain from the use of spirits," he warns, "and to give up or sharply curtail smoking."

Instead, he prescribes setting-up exercises every morning and a two-hour stroll each evening in the open air.

"Observance of these simple rules," concludes the doctor, "will preserve the health and the capacity for labor and prevent heat and sun stroke."

Worthless, Says Economist

Defence Spending Not Saving Canada

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian economist said Thursday Canada's defence spending is "worthless" from a defence standpoint and serves only to show the U.S. that "we're on their side."

Dr. Scott Gordon, professor of economics at Carleton University in Ottawa, told a seminar on Canada-U.S. relations at the University of B.C. that Canada's fiscal policy is determined by U.S. foreign policy.

"Our defence establishment in Canada is like putting filters on the end of cigarets," Dr. Gordon said. "We think we are doing something about the problem, but in the final analysis we are doing nothing.

"But we feel safer, and maybe that is what we are paying for."

Dr. Gordon suggested Canada spend her defence dollars on aid to middle powers who are "western oriented."

It Changes Sides of Head

Curious Halibut Has Roving Eye

VANCOUVER (CP) — The halibut is a curious fish, say International Pacific Halibut Commission scientists who are making a two-month survey of the species.

They have found that the young halibut behaves in a rather extraordinary fashion, for its left eye migrates to the right side of its head. What happens to the right eye they don't say, but at the same time the round fish becomes flat.

Age Is a Disease

No Theoretical Limit To Human Life Span

TORONTO (CP)—A world-famous Montreal medical scientist says there is no theoretical limit to human life expectancy.

Dr. Hans Selye, noted for his studies of the effects of stress on health, relates in in an article in Maclean's Magazine that body tissue from rats has been kept alive and healthy under laboratory conditions for a period equivalent to 1,000 years in the human scale.

"If the causes of aging can be found, there is no good medical reason to believe that it will not be possible for science to find some practical way of slowing the process down or even bringing it to a standstill," he says in the article.

"In the terms I am using here aging can be regarded as a disease. Like any other disease, it is probably preventable or curable.

"And since tissue is technically immortal, the 'normal' life span of a human being may be described as any number of years the medical science of the moment is capable of making it — seventy years, a hundred, two hundred, perhaps more.

"There is no theoretical limit, although by this I do not mean to suggest immortality for mankind.

"There will always be a practical limit set by imperfect medical skill and knowledge, and the risky but unavoidable adventure of living outside a test tube."

The 52-year-old Vienna-born director of the University of Montreal's Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery describes current experiments he and colleagues are making into the secrets of life.

In one, a glass tube inserted in the body of a rat develops a tiny cord which scientists are studying as a new form of life—a cord with a blood-supply system and connective tissues.

"The cord may turn out to be an indispensable tool in deciphering the processes of life," Dr. Selye says. "It may turn out to be a medical curiosity with no larger significance at all."

The average human life expectancy has increased to 70 from 50 years since 1900, he says. Most of the increase has been the result of basic medical research.

Selective Draft Only Answer?

Army Hasn't Enough Men For Civil Defence Duties

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The government has designated the army as the rescue agency in event of nuclear attack on Canada but officers say the army has less than a quarter of the manpower needed for this role.

The army plans to form some 66 mobile columns, some of them 900-man battalion size, to detect nuclear radiation and rescue and decontaminate as many persons as possible from blitzed targets. This will involve 70,000 to 80,000 men, including regular and militia soldiers.

But officers associated with the new army plans say that nearly 400,000 men will be needed to carry out the job properly because there are 13 major target areas in Canada. Ottawa, a city of 230,000, would require six mobile rescue colmns itself.

COMPLETE COURSE

Nearly 60 militia officers are completing at the Canadian Army Staff College here the first two-week course on organization and deployment of the mobile columns.

Where will the government find the personnel for national survival—the army's new term for civil defence?

Some officers say they believe the only feasible solution is incorporation of the some 157,000 trained civilian civil defence workers into the mobile column arrangement. This would mean, however, the summoning of trained workers out of the cities at a time when roads would be congested by evacuees.

A few officers say privately the only solution would appear to be some system of national selective service, but that they doubt the government would ever adopt such a policy.

Until recently, civil defence was the responsibility of the federal health department.

But now responsibility has been split four ways among the health, defence and justice departments and the prime minister's office. This has dismayed civil defence officials and they say they believe the defence department must ultimately become solely responsible.

NEW ROLE

On Sept. 1, the army will officially take over its new role, which apparently has gone down well with the militia. A military organization is required for the mobile columns and the militia, as well as the regular army, fits the bill. The big lack is an extreme shortage of radiation detection equipment.

To Protest New Labor Laws

CCF, Labor May Join Forces For Newfoundland Election

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — There was speculation yesterday that a fourth political party — backed by the CLC and CCF — will seek seats in Newfoundland general election Aug. 20.

The Newfoundland Federation of Labor received the go ahead, at its annual meeting in Corner Brook a week ago, to form a new party to protest recent labor laws passed by the provincial government.

AT LEAST TEN

The labor federation may name candidates in at least 10 electoral districts.

The sources are quoted as saying the federation, which claims a membership of 20,000, is waiting for confirmation of plans made to date and the agreement of a few non-labor candidates.

UNKNOWN SOURCE

Federation President Larry Daley would not confirm or deny the report. "The source of the information is not known to the Newfoundland Federation of Labor," he said.

But he admitted that a meeting of labor leaders yesterday discussed "political matters."

In Ottawa, Claude Jodoin, CLC president, said he could not confirm or deny the speculation. However, other labor sources said that they expect that a number of trade union candidates will contest the election.

ALSO CAUTIOUS

Also playing a cautious game is provincial CCF leader Esau Thomas, who has announced he will contest the Placentia East district.

He declined to comment directly on a possible CCF-Labor campaign. The announcement will come, he said, at the same time the labor bodies announce their intentions.

Both NFL and CCF spokesmen said their stand would be made known "shortly."

Five Climbers Vanish In Himalayan Blizzard

LONDON (AP)—Five of six Europeans in a Himalayan mountain expedition hit by a blizzard were reported Friday to be missing. Three are British, two German.

Tom Price, British agent for the expedition, said word to this effect had been received from John Edwards of Swansea, Wales, the only known European survivor.

"I received a telegram from Edwards on Tuesday saying that the other five Europeans had failed to return to base camp," Price told a reporter.

"He made no mention of the weather, but has evidently taken a serious view of their disappearance because he asked me to inform their relatives."

In Rawalpindi, Pakistan, it was reported that the five were swept away in a blizzard in the Karakoram range of the Himalayas.

Reports said a search is still going on for the British team, which set out to climb 25,540-foot Batura Mustagh peak.

The last news of the climbers was that they had established their third camp at 18,000 feet in June. They planned to set up three more camps before attempting the peak in Hunza state, on the northwest frontier of Pakistan.

The party was led by Dr. Keith Warburton.

In London, Price said Warburton, 28, was among the missing. He said the others are Britons, Harry Stephenson 22, and Dick Knight, 26, and two Germans, Dr. Martin Gunnel 28, and Albert Hirschbirchler, 27.

The expedition was backed by the Mount Everest Foundation and the British Glaciological Society.

Beat-Tax Plan to Benefit Boy

28 Cents to $28,000,000

LONDON (AP) — A seven-year-old Ulster boy, who gets along now on an allowance of two shillings (28 cents) a week, looks set for a windfall of around £10,000,000 ($28,000,000).

* * *

Young Gerald Cavendish Grosvenor is third in line for the Duchy of Westminster, the largest private estate in Britain outside those of the Royal Family. Its riches now are being spilled into auction rooms to pay off taxes incurred at the death of the second Duke of Westminster in 1953.

Gerald's father, Lt.-Col. Robert George Grosvenor, 49, who inherited a part of the estate, said he might settle a huge sum on the boy to head off the tax collector.

* * *

Gerald Grosvenor lives on a 171-acre manor near Enniskillen. He is surrounded by his family's hereditary wealth but his own allowance is no more than an ordinary British youngster's.

Gerald's uncle, who has no children, and his father are both ahead of him in the family queue for the title. The present duke is 58 and a bachelor.

* * *

Five Years Too Long to Wait

'We Prayed and Thoughts Came to Our Hearts'

By STEVE SCOTT

NELSON (CP) — Shawled Sons of Freedom Doukhobor mothers sat silently Friday as a magistrate announced the release of 77 Freedomite children who had been in provincial government custody, in some cases, for five years.

Not a flicker of a smile nor a trace of satisfaction was seen in the impassive faces of mothers who for years had not seen their children except under the shadow of a wire fence surrounding a dormitory at New Denver, 65 miles from here.

The parents, after much soul-searching and prayer, in effect had buried their ancient religious fears to conform with modern law.

"Five years was too much," one woman said later.

"We prayed to God and thoughts came into our hearts."

All but two of the children would be released at 1 p.m. Sunday and special arrangements would be made for the other two.

"The court wishes the parents good luck and happiness," Magistrate Evans said in the silent court.

The dormitory was established by the provincial government in 1953 to house children whose Freedomite parents did not send them to school according to the laws of the province. RCMP rounded up the children over a period of years.

Water-Bomber Splashes Thirsty Blaze

Fast-shuttling aircraft are aiding in battle against raging Quadra Island forest fire by water bombing. Small planes carrying 150 gallons can scoop up a load from the nearby saltchuck and make a bombing run in six minutes. Blaze near Campbell River is worst in Vancouver forest district, now faced again with threat of closure. See story, page 11. —(Baldwin's photo.)

MOM WHYTE LOSES 'NEGLECTED' TOTS

Ontario Raids Haven

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario health department closed in on Mrs. Bertha Mom Whyte Friday night and emptied her Whytehaven mission home of its child occupants.

Armed with a court order issued under the Child Welfare Act, a cavalcade of cars descended on the big farm home shortly before darkness and removed 117 children, many of them kicking and screaming in fright.

'NEGLECTED'

The court order said it was apparent the children were "neglected."

Mrs. Whyte, a devotedly religious woman who says she has a "covenant with God" to care for homeless children, protested bitterly that the action was taken without any warning.

LONG CONFLICT

Mrs. Whyte long has been in conflict with Ontario health and welfare authorities over the operation of the home. The battle reached a climax in the last few weeks with outbreaks of influenza, infectious hepatitis and gastro enteritis at Whytehaven.

UNDERSTAFFED

Welfare Minister Cecile said this week the home was overcrowded and understaffed and warned that action would be taken unless some of the children were removed to other accommodation.

Mrs. Whyte, 43-year-old wife of a rubber plant worker, denied the charge of neglect.

ASKED PROOF

"I asked them proof of the neglect which was stated in the document and they refused to answer me. They still have not proved that I neglected any of my children. I want proof of the statement."

She said two welfare officials visited the home Friday to study her records.

CONTACT PARENTS

"They said it was so they could contact the parents of the children if necessary. There never was any indication that this would happen."

Welfare workers said the children were taken by car to Children's Aid Societies from Port Hope to Hamilton. Some would go to the Salvation Army. Children in the isolation ward, suspected of having hepatitis, would go to isolation hospitals.

FLED ACROSS FIELDS

Several of the older boys, about 13 or 14 years old, fled across the farm fields as the officials moved in.

Welfare officials used arm tape to identify the younger children, most of whom were in bed when the cars started arriving about 8 p.m.

PREMIER BENNETT

Jokers Ignite Bondfire Fuel

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Staff Reporter

KELOWNA—Pranksters tried to steal Premier Bennett's thunder last night by setting fire to the huge pile of rubbish which was to be used to ignite the big "bondfire" today.

While Social Creditors celebrated in the plush Aquatic Club here about 11 p.m., flames suddenly roared 30 feet into the air from the burning rubbish pile on the nearby shore of Okanagan Lake. (See story on page 15.)

"My gosh, that's where the raft is," said a Socred official looking out a window.

Cabinet ministers, and civic and board of trade officials who were their guests, dashed down to the lakeshore where they found the raft, which will be used to float the "bondfire," safe beside a Socred "Happy Birthday" placard.

The party stood around and watched the rubbish burn, making plans to round up more for the big fire today.

Meeting in Vancouver

B.C. Unionists to Study Overall Labor Crisis

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three hundred union leaders from across B.C. will meet in an all-day session here today to discuss the province's labor situation.

The delegates to the B.C. Federation of Labor council meeting will discuss a move to post bail totalling $6,000 for two Ironworkers' Union officials being held in prison because they have not paid fines for contempt of court.

The meeting, closed to the press and public, will have other important topics . . . the IWA strike, which has had 25,000 coastal wodworkers off the job for nearly four weeks, and the Fishermen and Shoreworkers' strike, which has idled 5,000 salmon fishermen, 3,000 shoreworkers and 700 tendermen.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the federation, said the meeting will discuss the labor situation as a whole and will be asked specially to approve a motion to allow federation officers to post bail for the ironworkers' officials.

President Fernand Whitmore and business agent Thomas McGrath of Local 97 of the Ironworkers are being held in Oakalla Prison, where they were taken when they did not pay fines of $3,000 each.

Convictions came over noncompliance with a court order to have men return to work on one section of the Second Narrows Bridge, shut down by a strike of the ironworkers' union.

Better Than for Some Time

Canada, U.S. Relations 'Fundamentally Healthy'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Relations between Canada and the United States are better today than they have been for some time, says U.S. Consul-General Hayden Raynor of Vancouver.

He made the observation Friday in an address evaluating a week-long seminar on Canada-U.S. relations at the University of British Columbia.

Settlement of several outstanding grievances — U.S. quotas against oil imports, banning of Communist Chinese shrimps, and the finding of a "formula for at least attacking the question of defence sharing between the two countries" were steps in the right direction.

Relations are "fundamentally healthy," Mr. Raynor said, and because of continuing consultation between the two governments "we find it almost always possible to come to some solution."

However, he noticed among Canadians at the seminar "more uneasiness than I had realized existed in respect of foreign investment."

Six Hurt on Train In Emergency Stop

REGINA (CP) — Six persons, one of them a dining car waiter, were brought to hospital here Friday after being hurt when the Canadian Pacific Railway's train No. 8, the Dominion, made an emergency stop as it was leaving Moose Jaw, 40 miles west.

5,500-Mile Cruise—In U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever think you'd like to get the family into a little boat and go cruising down the river? Todd Crawford, a lean, twinkling, nut-brown Missourian, thought so, did so, and in 38 leisurely days has cruised to a world distance record.

Crawford, his wife sue, and his daughter Sue, climbed into a 16-footer named Su Too in Yankton, S.D., on June 6. Several rivers, canals, inland waterways, one gulf, 21 states, 51 days, and 5,500 miles later they reached New York. The previous record for an outboard motorboat cruise was 3,800 miles, set by Harvey Hacker in 1955.

Only 38 of the days were spent on the water. The other 13 were spent sightseeing ashore. Crawford and the three Sues now are chugging up the Hudson on the homeward leg of a cruise totalling 8,300 miles.

Asked what was the most irritating thing about such a summer, Mrs. Crawford, a cheerful sort, replied: "I'm scared of water."

Crawford said the route he laid out is the longest possible within the United States without resorting to portages.

From here on it's the Hudson River, Champlain Canal, Lake Champlain, old St. Lawrence Seaway, Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron, and Michigan, Chicago Canals, Mississippi, Missouri, and Osage river to the lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, which is home.

In Florida, they took a wrong river in the Everglades, ran into a dead end of trees, while backtracking got lashed by fringe winds of a tornado, ended up exhausted in a dismal hotel, and remembered the day was their 19th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Crawford was asked what they planned to do next summer.

Moscow Rises, Falls Daily

Red Capital Throbs In Tune with Tides

Twice a day it rises straight up more than a foot and a half.

Earth tides, like those of the sea, are caused by the gravitational pull of the sun and moon.

Nesmeyanov, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, noted the effect of earth tides on Moscow in an article published by Pravda on International Geophysical Year research. The article has been translated and distributed here.

Investigation of these ripples in the planet's crust, Nesmeyanov said, is "one of the comparatively new methods of studying the internal structure of the earth."

"It is known," he said, "that in Moscow the tidal wave in 12 hours can reach 50 to 60 centimetres (1.65 to 1.98 feet).

"This means that the whole city is raised in a vertical direction by half a metre twice a day."

This work, he suggested, could be done with special profit "in central Asia where the indirect effects caused by the shifting of the water masses of the oceans are not felt."

This and other research done during the IGY, he said, will lead to "substantial expansion of our knowledge of the earth."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

POOLE, Dorset — This is a fatter and shinier England than we saw on our last visit, eight years ago. But some things never change: British kindness and good manners.

We were tired when we got off the Italia at Southampton about 7 a.m. and made our way to the customs table at the letter M, where our luggage was assembled, inside a railway station.

An amiable porter moved the cases up to the customs table and stood by waiting to take them farther; a railway official asked whether there was anything he could do to help; and a customs officer asked the routine questions in a mild and courteous tone, while looking us over in that searching, intuitive way that customs officers have.

In my limited experience, I think that British customs officers are the politest and New York customs officers the rudest. Reasonable and friendly treatment from the customs is an important thing for the traveller who comes ashore tired and harassed.

The man in charge of luggage was doing business from a suitcase, in a cheerful and unhurried way. While I negotiated with him to have a trunk and two suitcases forwarded, my two small boys were standing at the barrier, coolly inspecting my mother-in-law and my wife's nephew and cousin, who had driven down to Southampton to fetch us.

Last Look at Italia

As the car swung away from the station, we had our last look at the Italia. She was a comfortable ship.

Then we were moving past puffing steam locomotives, double-decker buses, police in the familiar tall helmets and scores of men on bicycles; past brick walls and gleaming store fronts.

Last time I saw Southampton it was a bomb-shattered ghost of a town. Now most of the ruins have been swept away, and streets of handsome glass-fronted stores built. Only a few weedy bombsites remain. The shops are crammed with a rich assortment of groceries and appliances, and the streets are crowded with cars.

The boys cried out with excitement when they saw double-decker buses or one of the three-wheeled cars which Britain makes for the home market. They decided that they liked my wife's cousin, Arthur and her nephew, Trevor, and showed their goodwill by climbing and pummelling them, even though Arthur was driving.

"Do you live in a castle?" Michael asked Arthur.

We drove on through the New Forest, that ancient, park-like woodland interspersed with open places where the wild ponies wandered. We brushed off the children's suggestions that we should stop and feed the ponies, and take one home with us.

War a Distant Memory

In Bournemouth, the post-war shabbiness had given place to a look of wealth and abundance. A new multi-story hotel had arisen where the shattered wreck of the Lansdowne used to be. The war seemed a distant memory. Only by strenuous efforts could the mind call up an image of blackout, air raid sirens, barbed wire and iron posts on the beaches, and thousands of Canadian airmen laughing, chattering and playing cards and dice in the bare rooms of the seaside hotels.

The pier, formerly broken in half to frustrate a possible German invasion, had been repaired, and a paddlewheel pleasure steamer plied from it. My little boys took off their shoes and socks on the beach and ran squealing with pleasure along the fine golden sand, while I sat back in a deck chair, nearly asleep.

It was early. Only a few mothers, fathers, dogs and children with buckets, spades and rubber balls were on the sand. The sea odor, the sand castles, and the sound of English voices together stirred up some very old memories of my own childhood on an English beach.

John cried when he was separated from a boat which Trevor had made for him out of sand. Then we were in the car again on our way to the home of my wife's mother, in Poole, where we are to stay for a time. I feel tired enough to sleep for a week.

Weather Luck Holds

Queen Carries Sun with Her

HALIFAX (CP)—The Queen's fabulous luck with the weather held out long enough Friday for a three-stop circuit of Nova Scotia on this eve of her departure for home after her 15,000-mile, 45-day tour.

She visited the steel and coal areas of Sydney and New Glasgow before winding up at this old naval base, which will be her departure point tonight.

There was a relaxed atmosphere Friday with the Queen in an easy-going frame of mind, a happy smile on her face and apparently ready to carry out her program no matter how tough it might be.

Early in the morning she insisted on taking off from Charlottetown with her destination points weathered in close to royal limits for flying because she said she didn't want to keep people waiting in the streets. But it was Queen's weather all the way with the sun splashing through the murk every time she hove in sight.

And the prince was in an unusually jovial mood, shooting asides to the press party, telling a six-foot-10-inch scholarship winner he was obviously headed for "higher" education.

'NOT IN FOLD?'

He kidded a newspaper editor with a question as to why he hadn't been "taken into the fold" of Roy Thomson, owner of many papers in Canada as well as the United States and recent purchaser of a string of British newspaper properties.

The royal tourists gave the impression they had had a good time but were also glad it was close to the end of a long tour—and close to home and family. They are six hours away by jet from England.

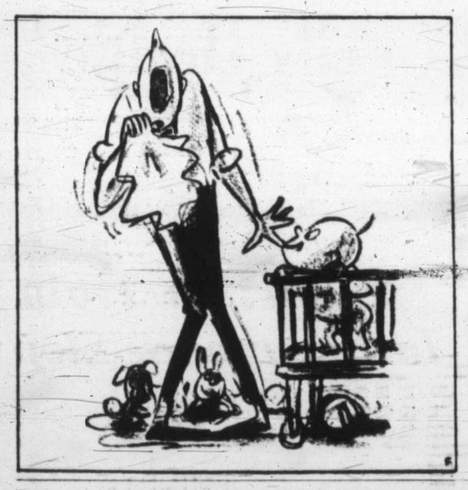
What Dr. Spock Didn't Tell Us

Father Has Nine Fingers



GOAT MOUTH

A dietary phenomenon in which babies, usually from nine to 24 months, are possessed of a great appetite for everything but food, showing a marked preference for coffee grounds, egg shells, lamp cords, soap, soil, crib railings, dog biscuit and quite often the ear of the dog itself.

Just how the infant, with his small and limited number of teeth, can chew his way through crib railings, spaniel ears, etc., will forever remain a mystery to the parent unless in an effort to remove splinters, dog hair, egg shells, etc., the parent is stupid enough to stick a finger in said infant's mouth. Not all nine-fingered fathers have power saws.

By JIM TANG

While a last-quarter surge may have made many of the 1,893 fans at Memorial Arena forget the first three quarters, the cold fact remains that Victoria Shamrocks will have to be a far different club than they were last night if they are to see any post-season Inter-City Lacrosse League action.

Lacking almost everything, including fight, for 50 minutes, the Rocks were 10 goals in arrears with 10 minutes and five seconds left. Their seven-goals-in-nine-minutes rally against the eased-up Vancouver Carlings made the final count a reasonably-respectable 18-13, but it was a score which didn't really tell the story.

Shamrocks have probably never been worse than they were last night for three quarters. They lost almost every face-off, were outhustled for loose balls and often wasted the ball when they did get possession.

Worst of all was their defensive play. Geordie Johnston had trouble with long shots before he took himself out of the game at 2.48 of the second quarter with the score 7-1. Don Hamilton had little better success as he, too, suffered from an atrocious lack of protection.

Bigger, tougher and more determined, the business-like Carlings rolled over and around Victoria checkers. Almost all the Rocks were remiss but the Whitey Severson-Ron Jay-Bert Bertoia line had the worst time of all, being on the floor for 11 of Carlings' goals.

In piling up a 16-6 lead in the first 50 minutes, Carlings looked like the club they should be with such fine lacrosse talent as Gordie Gimple, Bob Marsh, Bill Barbour, Bill Chisholm, Pete Black, Bob Parry and Bob Babcock, a sturdy blonde youngster who deserves a thought for the rookie award although he has played only about half the season.

Gimple, who led everyone with four goals and two assists, started them off with the game's first two goals. Chisholm, who has never looked better here, scored three times and everyone else, with the possible exception of lanky Fred Usselman, who had one of those nights, did his bit for the first 50 minutes.

RED ROCKS

Rookies Jim McNeill, who is some day likely to lead this league in scoring, and Tom Collett, the picture runner, led the Rocks in their scrappy if late, comeback. McNeill got three of his four goals within five minutes and Collett scored twice in the tardy rally, which was interrupted twice when Marsh and Chisholm kept the score from getting too close with fine individual efforts.

It's a situation which will almost certainly require four wins for the Shamrocks to make the playdowns. They play Carlings here Monday, then have home-and-home series with Nanaimo and the leading New Westminster O'Keefes.

Nanaimo has one game left with O'Keefes and two with Vancouver in addition to its two with Victoria while Carlings play O'Keefes twice in addition to the single game with Victoria and the two with Nanaimo.

Sports Hall of Fame Now Includes Reeve

TORONTO (CP)—Election of three former star athletes—Ted Reeve of Toronto, Jimmy Ball of Winnipeg and Frank McGill of Montreal—to the Canadian Sports Hall of Fame was announced Friday.

Reeve, Toronto Telegram sports columnist, starred at football and lacrosse. Ball was a noted sprinter and McGill an all-round performer whose sports included swimming and basketball.

Rookie McCovey Earns Spurs Helps Giants Hold Top Place

San Francisco Giants, led for the second straight night by rookie Willie McCovey, stayed on top of the tight National League pennant race last night, but both Milwaukee Braves and Los Angeles Dodgers stayed right on their heels.

McCovey made his first start for the Giants Thursday and hit two triples and two singles in a 7-2 victory over Philadelphia. He was at it again last night, singling home Willie Mays in the eighth inning with the Giants' winning run as they beat Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

Still half a game behind are Milwaukee Braves, who despite crippling injuries appear to be approaching the form that has won them two straight pennants. They won their seventh game in eight starts last night, blanking St. Louis Cardinals, 6-0, on three-hit pitching by Bob Buhl, his first complete game since June 11.

Milwaukee was held hitless for the first five inning by Dean Stone, but broke loose for five runs in the fifth. Joe Adcock hit a three-run homer and Hank Aaron belted his 28th of the season and fourth in three games.

The Dodgers got another fine pitching chore out of sidearming Don Drysdale in a 5-4 decision over Philadelphia. Drysdale scattered eight hits and struck out 14 for his 14th win of the season. In the other National League game, Cincinnati edged Chicago Cubs, 5-4, on a ninth-inning home run by Johnny Powers.

White Sox parlayed nine hits and four errors into a 7-1 victory over Washington Senators to hold their one-game advantage over the Indians, who edged Baltimore Orioles, 5-1. Kansas City stayed in third place, but fell 9½ games off the pace.

PITCHERS BATTERED

Yankees battered four pitchers for 13 hits, including home runs by Yogi Berra, Elston Howard and Hector Lopez. Every Yankee got at least one hit, and Bobby Shantz got his fifth win in relief of Don Larsen.

White Sox got a four-hit pitching chore from 23-year-old Barry Latman, who was pressed into service because of Dick Donovan's ailing shoulder, Latman lost his shutout when Bob Allison hit his 27th homer for the Senators in the seventh inning. Earl Torgeson homered for Chicago.

By LARRY ROSE

Bill Hoogs of Berkeley, Calif., meets third-seeded fellow-Californian Dale Rohland today in the men's singles final of the B.C. lawn tennis championships following an impressive 6-2, 6-2, 6-4 win over Jim Jackson in Friday's play at Victoria Lawn Tennis club.

Taking the net at every opportunity, Hoogs had yesterday's semi-final match under control throughout. Only for a brief portion of the third set did his Portland, Ore., challenger threaten to extend the match.

Today's final is expected to produce the best tennis of the week-long tournament. It will be a best-of-five match beginning at 1.15 p.m.

Finals were reached in all events Friday.

One of the days' best individual performances was given by trim Val Williamson of Eureka, Calif. Mrs. Williamson, competing with only 10 minutes rest between matches, defeated Victoria's Diane Lawrence in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2. The convincing win earned her a berth in today's women's singles' final against top-seeded Patti Miller of Portland.

Miss Lawrence had defeated fellow Victorian Joy Wasson 6-3, 6-1 to enter the semi-final.

IN MIXED, TOO

Val also competed in the mixed doubles' semi-final, teaming with husband Ellis against Vancouver's Claire Lovett and Pasedena's Merwin Miller.

A late surge by the Lovett-Miller pair carried them into today's final although Mrs. Williamson had forced most of the early play with brilliant serves and net shots.

In men's doubles play, Rohland, competing under North Hollywood colors, and Miller defeated Ellis Williamson and Ross Hughes of Seattle. Scores were 6-1, 10-8, 6-2. Another similar match saw Bill Hoogs and Steve Chandler, also of Pasadena, down Harry Doyle of Sacramento and Don Stensaas of Modesto, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5.

Women's doubles were also played and finals in this event begin at 3.00 p.m. with Clare Lovett and Patti Miller favored over Sonia Berdan and Valerie Williamson.

12.15 p.m.—Junior veterans doubles final, Hughes and Churchill vs. M. Miller and B. Cavendish.

2.30 p.m.—Women's consolation final, M. Bray vs. J. Woollison; Men's consolation final, Aldiguer vs. Welles.

3.00 p.m.—Men's open doubles final, Rohland and Miller vs. Hoogs and Chandler; Ladies doubles final, Lovett and Miller vs. Berdan and Williamson.

4.30 p.m.—Men's senior veterans doubles finals, Cavendish and Brand vs. winner of Dranga and Churchill vs. Todd and Bolton; Mixed doubles final, Miller and Rohland vs. Lovett and Miller.

Wakeman-Trimble are having trouble gaining any ground in Senior Amateur Baseball League standings but, if nothing else, are steadily putting distance between themselves and last-place Naval Vets.

Scoring 10 runs in the final three innings, Wakeman-Trimble trounced Naval Vets 14-7 Friday night at Royal Athletic Park. The win gave Wakeman-Trimble a game-and-a-half lead over Naval Vets. They trail second-place Eagles by 2½ games.

Pitcher Jerry Booth had a big hand in last night's victory. Booth gave up 10 hits but, aside from the sixth inning when he gave up five runs, was rarely in trouble.

League play continues today with the weekly doubleheader. Eagles host Naval Vets in the opening game while first-place Pages meet Wakeman-Trimble in the nightcap.

Ladysmith Eliminated

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Kennewick emerged as the only remaining undefeated team in the elimination Northwest Regional Pony League baseball tournament Friday by turning back previously undefeated Richland, 5-4.

Linked with Richland as once-beaten squads were Walla Walla, which eliminated Ladysmith, B.C., 6-5, and Pasco, which erased Fairbanks, Alaska, 6-1.

In Saturday's games, Richland takes on Pasco and Walla Walla tangles with Kennewick. The loser of the first game will be eliminated. Walla Walla will be out if it loses to Kennewick.

Speaking Briefly

Baseball Executives Warned By Senate Sub-Committee

Senator Estes Kefauver cautioned baseball moguls yesterday that their efforts to help or hinder the proposed third major league will be watched closely by the U.S. Congress.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate monopoly subcommittee, aimed his remarks squarely at Warren Giles and Joe Cronin, presidents respectively of the National and American Leagues, and general manager George Weiss of New York Yankees.

The senator said he had read news accounts of what he called some "rather discouraging statements" attributed to all three. "I hope these gentlemen will have a change of heart," he added.

Kefauver said Congress and his investigating subcommittee will watch with close interest what happens when the founders of the new Continental League meet Aug. 18 with owners and officials of the American and National Leagues.

Big Car Racing Back For Sunday Matinee

Big-car racing returns to Western Speedway tomorrow afternoon with the annual 30-lap Roy White Memorial as the feature attraction of the six-race card.

With big-car races scheduled tonight in Vancouver, officials at Western postponed tonight's meet until tomorrow afternoon at 1 p.m. to allow drivers to compete in both meets.

At least 17 cars are expected to enter the feature race, held in memory of a former driver at Western Speedway who was killed in an accident on the Malahat in 1956. Included will be leading drivers from Washington and Oregon, headed by Seattle's Del Fanning.

Seven of the 17 cars will be powered by the increasingly-popular Ranger motors, first introduced to the Pacific Northwest by Fanning.

Fanning, Paul Pold, Ray Wearn and Arlie Bonefield of Seattle, Jim Hartman of Portland and Corky Thomas of Victoria are among those driving the Rangers, which have won most of the big car races at Western.

Smokey Blake and Mel McGoy of Bremerton, Del Fanning, Jr., Bill Heller and Ray Laing of Seattle and Bill Hyde and Ernie Koch of Portland are other visiting drivers competing for the trophy won last year by Fanning, Sr.

New Mooring Space for Pleasure Boats

Nearing completion at Sidney is this $40,000 project to more than double mooring space for pleasure craft. Two of the new floats will be available for public use, while the third will be used exclusively by vessels wishing to clear Canadian Customs. The Pacific Pile Driving Company of Victoria, contractors, expect to complete the job by Aug. 13.—(Colonist photo.)

Time for Hormone Spray

Christmas in the Air —For Holly Growers

NORTH COWICHAN — It might be a little early to be thinking of Christmas, but not for Major A. A. M. Stewart.

He is Vancouver Island's biggest holly farmer, who is busy spraying hormone solutions on more than 320,000 springs of holly that will be cut during November and December.

"It is my busiest season, when I have to watch that the leaves stay a dark green. The solution does it. It is one of the more important steps," he said yesterday.

When he has finished spraying some of the 1,200 trees that occupy 10 of his 100-acre property on Lakes Road, beside Quamichan Lake, Major Stewart arranges 2,000 feet of irrigation pipe "so each tree gets one inch of precipitation per week."

It takes two weeks of changing the irrigation apparatus to see that all the trees get the right amount of water, he said.

Maybe it could be said that water, too, has something to do with making a Merry Christmas.

Quadra Island

Men, Gear Rushed to Fire

CAMPBELL RIVER—Additional men and equipment were being rushed to Quadra Island, just north of here, late yesterday in a battle to control a forest fire destroying over 250 acres of forest.

British Columbia forest service officials said the blaze, raging over rugged, bluffy terrain, was being fought by 60 men, 10 heavy tractors and three airplanes with water-bombing equipment.

The Quadra Island fire was the worst reported in the Vancouver forest service yesterday as the hazard climbed in most parts of the province. There were 21 burning in the district.

The forest service said there will not be an immediate recreation closure in the woods in the Vancouver Island area but the situation will be reviewed today.

FOUR NEW FIRES

Four new fires were reported on the Island since Thursday. Two of them, at Courtenay and Langford were extinguished while two more, at Duncan and Pemberton were being controlled. North of here on the mainland three fires were reported on Bute Inlet and one on Lochborough Inlet.

Comox Logging and Railway Co. bulldozers were to be moved into the fire area today over a rough road from Quathiaski Cove to the Deep Bay-Granite Bay area of the fire on the north end of Quadra Island.

CONTAIN BLAZE

The equipment will be used in an attempt to cut fire breaks and contain the blaze.

The water bombing from the planes has been kept up steadily since the fire was spotted. The aircraft can scoop up a load of salt water from the sea and get back to the fire with it in about six minutes. This method has helped keep the blaze from moving south into valuable timber.

'Mayor' Quits Job

NANAIMO—John London, affectionately described as the "unofficial mayor" of nearby Wellington, retired July 31 as chargeman and diesel maintainer on the E. & N. Railway after 47 years' service.

A dinner will be held in his honor on August 1.

He started his rail career in 1912 as a car repairer and apart from overseas service in the First World War he has served at Wellington and Victoria.

Active in community affairs at Wellington, he is a trustee of the United church, member of the North Wellington Waterworks District administration; member of the Fire Protection district; member of the South Central Vancouver Island Hospital Improvement district administration.

He is zone chairman of civil defence and past president of the Wellington Ratepayers' Association and Wellington Community Association.

Valley Hard Hit by Strikes

Alberni Salmon Trollermen Have No Market for Fish

PORT ALBERNI—Twenty salmon trollermen who live in Port Alberni are among hundreds on the B.C. coast affected by the fishermen's strike. Although not members of the striking union, they have nowhere to sell their fish with shoreworkers out in dispute so their boats are among the many tied up idle in the local harbor.

In addition to locally owned boats, a large number dock here to land their fish and many others based at West Coast points have been put out of work by the strike.

Meanwhile as the Alberni Valley's two main industries, fishing and lumbering are inoperative, a large number of residents have left temporarily on holidays and to seek employment.

DREW HOLIDAY PAY

Striking IWA members drew holiday pay this week and many are taking trips while others are hoping to make the extra funds ease the burden of being out of work.

Only mill still operating here is the pulp mill which has been partially closed for major cleanup and repairs. It is expected it will resume full operation shortly.

On Staff

Lieutenant-Colonel W. H. V. Matthews of Cowichan, former commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles in Victoria, has been appointed general staff officer, Grade 1, at the army's central command headquarters in Oakville, Ont.

Capt. Allan Hall

Two-War Veteran Funeral Today

DUNCAN—Veteran of the Boer War and the First World War, Capt. Allan Hall, 83, will be buried today.

The popular elder of the United Church and former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, died Thursday at King's Daughters' hospital.

For 21 years he served in the Imperial Army with the Black Watch. His service career started shortly before the African campaigns. After the war he served with the territorial forces in Scotland until 1914 when he rejoined his old unit.

HOLLAND, GERMANY

Capt. Hall saw action in Holland and Germany when he was promoted to captain.

He was born in Shipley, Yorkshire, and came to Canada in 1923. He lived at Winnipeg and worked for the Manitoba government until he retired in 1942.

MARRIED AT ALDERSHOT

He married at Aldershot in 1899. He was predeceased by his wife, Beatrice Maud, Sept. 28, last year.

Surviving are three sons, Allan, Ingersoll, Ont.; Norman, Toronto; and Ian, an RCMP corporal at Prince George; two daughters, Irene and Esme, at home, six grandchildren and a sister.

Rev. Ray Woolam will officiate at the service at 3 p.m. in the Hirst funeral home. Cremation will follow at Royal Oak.

Mrs. James Rites Today At Sidney

SOUTH PENDER ISLAND —Funeral services for Mrs. Frances James, 98, a well-known resident of the island, will be held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Sands' funeral home, Sidney.

Mrs. James, who was born in 1861 in County Cork in Ireland, came to Canada with her second husband in 1922, settling first in Kelowna. After his death she moved to Cordova Bay, Kyuquot on the west coast, Deep Cove, and finally South Pender in 1951.

She is survived by a son, Gerald, in Malaya and a daughter, Eileen, in Ireland.

Elk Falls Co. Seeking Injunction

VANCOUVER — Elk Falls Co. Ltd., started injunction proceedings here Thursday against the Courtenay local of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC).

The action is for an injunction restraining IWA members from trespassng on Elk Falls timberland near Duncan Bay, Vancouver Island, and from declaring logs "hot."

Besides naming IWA local 1-363 as a defendant, the company's solicitors also cite E. Kemps, of Bloedel; Jake Epp, Courtenay; E. Morgan, Stewart Island; A. Weibe, Kelsey Bay, and George W. Peters of Campbell River, president of local 742 of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers (CLC) at Elk Falls.

The court was also asked to direct Mr. Peters to withdraw paper mill workers' "hot cargo" stickers from Elk Falls logs stored at Gowiland harbor.

Jail Term to Follow Holiday in Cowichan

DUNCAN — A vacationing Victoria man who stayed at two resort hotels near here for three weeks was sentenced to three months in jail yesterday.

David Christoffersen was sentenced to Oakalla prison farm by Magistrate A. C. Sutton when he pleaded guilty to three charges of fraud by passing worthless cheques.

He was given the three-month jail term on one count and one-month concurrent sentences on the two others.

Princess Pats In Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—A group of officers and men of the Princess Patricias, a regular army unit, are stationed in Port Alberni on special summer exercises. They are accommodated in the old Second World War army camp.

MALAY JUNGLE

Signs, Fences Follow Death

CAMPBELL RIVER—Death of Victoria fisherman John Puhach at Ladore Dam on Upper Campbell Lake, July 21, has led to new precautions around hydro installations in the Campbell River watershed.

Additional warning signs are being erected at B.C. Power Commission developments and fences built in some locations.

But A. E. Price, supervisor of the John Hart power plant, said fences are only being erected at points of "serious hazard" so access to fishing spots is kept as open as possible.

Professor Defends College Policy

Books, Brains Better Than Bricks

Campus Shift Would Harm Drive

Even if Victoria College could obtain the $8,000,000 needed to build a new campus now at Gordon Head, Prof. Robert Wallace said yesterday, "I would rather spend it on books and brains than on bricks."

Decision to expand on the present campus, with 120 acres at Gordon Head kept for other purposes, had been made by the "devoted and responsible" members of the college council, he said, and further argument about the location could only do harm to the campaign for community support in the expansion.

Prof. Wallace, speaking to the Lions Club, said 15 acres of the present 53-acre campus site would be ample for the buildings involved in teaching.

Even if the college waited for the building of a new campus at Gordon Head to become a real university—"and we want to be a real university tomorrow"—the teaching area would be only 12 acres, he said.

But in future years the 120 acres at Gordon Head would be needed for residential purposes, playing fields, research buildings and perhaps an auditorium and a stadium to serve the community as well as the university, Prof. Wallace said, and in this area there would be room for parking.

Immediate need, requiring full community support, was to raise $1,500,000 for the construction of new facilities on the present campus to make the college a real university as soon as possible, he told the club. (The provincial government will match the $1,500,000 and the Canada Council will contribute $300,000.)

Whether the institution remained Victoria College or was called the University of B.C. in Victoria, Prof. Wallace said, was not unimportant, but not the really important issue —"What we want to do is establish the best liberal arts college we can in the next few years."

"Can we be a university and still call it Victoria College? Certainly! Certainly!" he said.

He cited several well-known universities called colleges. But, on the other hand, he cited examples of universities giving up the name of "college" for prestige and money-raising reasons.

Election Pledge Fulfilment

* * *

* * *

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Staff Reporter

KELOWNA—Premier Bennett will turn archer here tonight as he touches off the "bondfire" which will send up in smoke some $85,000,000 worth of bonds retired by the Social Credit government in fulfilment of an election promise to pay off B.C.'s direct debt.

The premier will use a bow to fire a flaming arrow to ignite the 40-foot-square, 25-foot-high bonfire which will be made up of the bonds, old straw and lumber, all liberally soaked with inflammable oil.

There are still some $98,000,000 in bonds outstanding in the direct debt but the government has provided money in the sinking funds to pay these off as they become due between now and 1977.

Hot air plagued the start of the "bonfire" celebrations scheduled to start at 8 last night.

First event scheduled to celebrate the proclamation of the end of the direct debt was a band concert here by the 71-piece B.C. Lions junior band from Vancouver but it had to be postponed when three buses carrying the B.C. Lions Band and another 80 members of Optimist Pipe Band and the West Vancouver Pipe Band were stalled near Princeton by vapor locks in the gas systems.

The vapor locks were caused by the 85-degree heat and the mountain travel combining to overheat the vehicle and create too much hot air in the gas system.

Scores of Cars Stalled

Scores of cars, many of them on their way here for the "bondfire" celebration have been stalled along the Hope-Princeton highway in the last two days with the vapor locks. One of the unfortunate ones was Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who managed to arrive in good time, however, because he left a day early.

All but two provincial cabinet ministers will be here today for the celebrations which are being combined with Social Credit's 7th birthday party. Works Minister W. N. Chant is holding down the seat of government in Victoria and Agriculture Minister Newton Steacey is attending an agricultural conference.

They are on their way along with hundreds of other Social Crediters.

There was an air of excitement here among Social Credit officials as the big hour drew closer but Kelowna residents didn't appear to take much interest. Few questioned even knew where the bond burning would take place.

But Social Creditors expect to have 1,000 people here today for the celebrations. Some plan to travel all night. Only a few persons are expected from Victoria. Well known personal friend of the premier's Waldo Skillings arrived yesterday afternoon from Victoria.

Ex-Mayor Hume There

Former Vancouver mayor Fred Hume is here. So are former finance minister Einar Gunderson, who was unable to get elected to a seat in the House, and Jim Behan a vice-president of the CNR.

Twenty-nine mayors and reeves of the Okanagan and adjoining districts will attend today.

The armored car carrying the bonds from Victoria arrived at 6.15 p.m. yesterday and the bonds were stored overnight in vaults of Canadian Bank of Commerce. The bonds will be loaded onto the barge at the Aquatic Club wharf at 5.30 p.m. today. Stan Campbell, MLA for the Fort St. John district, arrived in last night with two carloads of celebrating Social Creditors.

The grand parade of official cars, majorettes, seven bands, floats and a few gags that are being thrown in by people, who so far will only hint about them, is scheduled to start at 7.30 p.m. Giant cartons of serpentine ribbon will be distributed to parade watchers and by the time they get finished throwing it at parade officials Kelowna should look like New York after a ticker tape parade.

Paper Hats, Balloons

There will be paper hats and balloons for the youngsters.

After the parade there will be an aquacade show followed by the bondfire. Social Crediters today are celebrating the paying off of the provincial direct debt but other political parties call the Kelowna celebrations "a delusion and a show, a hoax, a cheap political fraud."

All will admit that Premier Bennett has paid off a great amount of public debt. Opposition members claim $165,000,000 but the premier talks of $190,000,000 which was the amount shown in the last budget before Social Credit took office but not the actual amount of the debt when the Socreds took office seven years ago today.

The opposition claims the premier merely stopped borrowing in the name of the government and had the government agencies borrow it instead, with the government guaranteeing the borrowings much like a co-signer to a bank loan.

Borrowed money then shows as a contingent liability and not as a direct debt. The contingent liability of B.C. is now around $500,000,000.

Meanwhile all eyes today are on Kelowna and people all over British Columbia are wondering if today the premier will announce some of the benefits he hopes to give them with the $25,000,000 of debt charges money.

Novices But Still Champs

Pipes Skirl Today

There'll be skirling pipes and swinging kilts as massed bands from several points in B.C. and the U.S. march at 3.30 p.m. in Macdonald Park today.

The display will be one of the highlights of the 22nd annual Highland Games, sponsored by the Victoria Highland Games Association.

Spectators will see a near-record entry of more than 300 compete in dancing and piping, the hammer-throw, caber-toss, tug-of-war and track and field games.

The games start at 9 a.m. and the morning program is filled with dancing and piping events.

Robert Strachan, leader of the opposition in the legislature, will officially open the games at 2 p.m.

At least nine bands will take part in the grand march past following the pipe band competition. They include Canadian Scottish, Canadian Scottish Cadets, Seattle Pipe Band, Eugene, Ore., Pipe Band, Seaforth Highlanders, Seaforth Highlanders Cadets, Nanaimo Pipe Band, Victoria Schools' Pipe Band and Victoria Girls' Pipe Band.

Friday Hottest

Cooling Breezes Expected Today

Sea breezes are expected to bring some lasting relief today to Greater Victoria which has sweltered in a heat wave since Wednesday.

"It looks as if we've had our period of really warm weather for the time being," weatherman William Mackie said last night.

Friday was the hottest day of the year, with an official high of 86.1 degrees shortly after 4 p.m.

AROUND 80

Mr. Mackie said cooling breezes off the water will drop temperatures to the low 70s today. But sheltered inland locations can expect the mercury to climb up around the 80-degree mark.

"It will still be warm but those areas along the shore will be noticeably cooler," he said.

First sign of relief from the heat wave came with a sea breeze in mid-afternoon Friday. All day the beaches were crowded with swimmers.

Temperatures continued to drop through the late afternoon and evening. The forecast overnight low was 60 degrees four degrees cooler than Thursday night.

SUNNIER, WARMER

Sunshine for the month totalled 383 hours and six minutes, just over 47 hours above average. Precipitation was .27 inches, slightly more than half the average rainfall. And the mean temperature was 61.9 degrees compared with the average of 60.

Friday's high of 86.1 degrees was a record for July 31. The previous record was 85.3 back in 1913. The hottest ever July day here was a sizzling 95.2 on July 17, 1941.

Despite the heat, there has been no undue use of water here, according to Ronald Upward, Greater Victoria water district commissioner. He said: "We have lots of water."

B.C. Forest Service officials said they did not anticipate a forest closure this weekend.

Meteor Show To Light Sky

Victoria residents may be treated to a display of fireworks in the sky Aug. 12, if weather conditions are favorable. The Dominion observatory at Ottawa said 30 to 50 meteors an hour could be observed that night. Little Saanich Mountain observatory said it is difficult to determine how many will be in view locally.

$1,000 Fire Hits Trailer

Jube Wickham, assistant Sooke fire chief, said the tank was hooked to a tow truck and men were lighting up the burners when some of the asphalt overflowed and caught fire.

Strikers Stop Loads Of Duncan Lumber

Seven large trucks carrying lumber consigned by a Duncan mill to a Vancouver dealer were stopped Friday night by striking woodworkers as they were driven off two ferries at Horseshoe Bay, near Vancouver.

Police stood by to prevent violence as massed ranks of members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) blocked the way at the

'HOT CARGO' LABEL

The timber, consigned by Summit Lumber Company to Superior Forest Products Limited in east-side Vancouver, was labelled "Hot Cargo." Police escorted the trucks to a parking lot near the Black Ball ferry dock.

President Syd Thompson of the 7,000-member Vancouver IWA local, who led the union picket squad, said the IWA had offered to unload the trucks and pay for storage of the timber.

'DUMMY RUN'

He said the consignment was a "dummy run." Small operators could sign an interim agreement permitting work to continue at any time, he said. The firms would have to grant the union's demand for a 20-per-cent increase until the strike is settled.

If the consignment had gone through it would have been followed by many others arranged by small operators, he said.

BEFORE THE STRIKE

Paul Manhas, president of Superior Forest Products, said the 70,000 feet of lumber halted had been produced before the strike began. He said the IWA granted permission for the consignment and five loads had passed through earlier Friday.

Mr. Manhas said the earlier cargoes were labelled "fair" by the union but "hot cargo" labels had been placed on the later loads apparently after union officials changed their minds.

Around the Island

Duncan Hospital Goes Into 'Black'

DUNCAN—Figures in the King's Daughters' Hospital ledgers skipped from red to black last month after showing a "deficit" of $12,000 up to the end of May.

Officials say the "jump" to $2,000 in the black by the end of June was due to increases of day rates from $14.30 to $15.60 by the provincial government.

PORT ALBERNI—A young German immigrant who after eight years in Canada still insisted he didn't know the law about not drinking in public was given an alternative of $50 fine or 30 days in jail yesterday.

He was found in a car parked in downtown Port Alberni and was drinking beer when stopped by police.

Accused insisted he did not know the law so didn't know whether to plead guilty. When told what the fine would be, he said he was unemployed and couldn't possibly pay.

Magistrate William MacLeod levied the minimum fine of $50 but told him it had to be immediate payment or time in jail.

THETIS ISLAND—One of Thetis Island's oldest residents, Mrs. Ethel Hunter, will officially turn on the power today linking Thetis and Kuper Islands with the rest of the Gulf Islands.

Ceremony will take place about 6 p.m. near the Thetis ferry dock and will be followed by a free supper sponsored by residents of the island. B.C. Power Commission officials will be present.

* * *

PORT ALBERNI—William James Orth, 18, a resident of Alberni, pleaded guilty to possession of liquor while a minor in police court yesterday and was fined $25 and $5 or 10 days.

He admitted ownership of a case of beer found in a car checked by police Thursday night.

DUNCAN—A ceremony opening the Cowichan class B exhibition administration building has been slated for Aug. 13.

Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy has been asked to "do the honors." The building is the first on the site which will eventually be the permanent exhibition site, just west of Pioneer Park.

Big Meeting A Mystery

Premier Bennett has invited major B.C. investment dealers to meet him Monday.

But, one of them said yesterday, "we are all wondering what it's all about. There is only one fellow who can tell, and that's the premier."

That appeared true at the legislative buildings, where the best-informed sources said they couldn't confirm such a meeting was planned.

Freedomite Children Coming Home

Five Years Too Long to Wait

'We Prayed and Thoughts Came to Our Hearts'

By STEVE SCOTT

NELSON (CP) — Shawled Sons of Freedom Doukhobor mothers sat silently Friday as a magistrate announced the release of 77 Freedomite children who had been in provincial government custody, in some cases, for five years.

Not a flicker of a smile nor a trace of satisfaction was seen in the impassive faces of mothers who for years had not seen their children except under the shadow of a wire fence surrounding a dormitory at New Denver, 65 miles from here.

The parents, after much soul-searching and prayer, in effect had buried their ancient religious fears to conform with modern law.

"Five years was too much," one woman said later.

"We prayed to God and thoughts came into our hearts."

All but two of the children would be released at 1 p.m. Sunday and special arrangements would be made for the other two.

"The court wishes the parents good luck and happiness," Magistrate Evans said in the silent court.

The dormitory was established by the provincial government in 1953 to house children whose Freedomite parents did not send them to school according to the laws of the province. RCMP rounded up the children over a period of years.

117 'Neglected' Children Seized in Night

Ontario Raids Haven

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario health department closed in on Mrs. Bertha "Mom" Whyte Friday night and emptied her Whytehaven mission home of its child occupants.

Armed with a court order issued under the Child Welfare Act, a cavalcade of cars descended on the big farm home shortly before darkness and removed 117 children, many of them kicking and screaming in fright.

RULED 'NEGLECTED'

The court order said it was apparent the children were "neglected."

Mrs. Whyte, a devotedly religious woman who says she has a "covenant with God" to care for homeless children, protested bitterly that the action was taken without any warning.

LONG CONFLICT

Mrs. Whyte long has been in conflict with Ontario health and welfare authorities over the operation of the home. The battle reached a climax in the last few weeks with outbreaks of influenza, infectious hepatitis and gastro-enteritis at Whytehaven.

UNDERSTAFFED

Welfare Minister Cecile said this week the home was overcrowded and understaffed and warned that action would be taken unless some of the children were removed to other accommodation.

Mrs. Whyte, 43-year-old wife of a rubber plant worker, denied the charge of neglect.

ASKED PROOF

"I asked them proof of the neglect which was stated in the document and they refused to answer me. They still have not proved that I neglected any of my children. I want proof of the statement."

She said two welfare officials visited the home Friday to study her records.

CONTACT PARENTS

"They said it was so they could contact the parents of the children if necessary. There never was any indication that this would happen."

Welfare workers said the children were taken by car to Children's Aid Societies from Port Hope to Hamilton. Some would go to the Salvation Army. Children in the isolation ward, suspected of having hepatitis, would go to isolation hospitals.

FLED ACROSS FIELDS

Several of the older boys, about 13 or 14 years old, fled across the farm fields as the officials moved in.

Welfare officials used arm tape to identify the younger children, most of whom were in bed when the cars started arriving about 8 p.m.

PREMIER BENNETT

Jokers Ignite Bondfire Fuel

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Staff Reporter

KELOWNA—Pranksters tried to steal Premier Bennett's thunder last night by setting fire to the huge pile of rubbish which was to be used to ignite the big "bondfire" today.

While Social Creditors celebrated in the plush Aquatic Club here about 11 p.m., flames suddenly roared 30 feet into the air from the burning rubbish pile on the nearby shore of Okanagan Lake. (See story on Page 15.)

"My gosh, that's where the raft is," said a Socred official looking out a window.

Cabinet ministers, and civic and board of trade officials who were their guests, dashed down to the lakeshore where they found the raft, which will be used to float the "bondfire," safe beside a Socred "Happy Birthday" placard.

The party stood around and watched the rubbish burn, making plans to round up more for the big fire today.

Meeting in Vancouver

B.C. Unionists to Study Overall Labor Crisis

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three hundred union leaders from across B.C. will meet in an all-day session here today to discuss the province's labor situation.

The delegates to the B.C. Federation of Labor council meeting will discuss a move to post bail totalling $6,000 for two Ironworkers' Union officials being held in prison because they have not paid fines for contempt of court.

The meeting, closed to the press and public, will have other important topics — the IWA strike, which has had 25,000 coastal wodworkers off the job for nearly four weeks, and the fishermen and shoreworkers' strike, which has idled 5,000 salmon fishermen, 3,000 shoreworkers and 700 tendermen.

Pat O'Neal, secretary of the federation, said the meeting will discuss the labor situation as a whole and will be asked especially to approve a motion to allow federation officers to post bail for the ironworkers' officials.

President Fernand Whitmore and business agent Thomas McGrath of Local 97 of the Ironworkers are being held in Oakalla Prison, where they were taken when they did not pay fines of $3,000 each.

Convictions came over non-compliance with a court order to have men return to work on one section of the Second Narrows Bridge, shut down by a strike of the ironworkers' union.

U.K. Printers End Walkout

LONDON (Reuters) — A work stoppage which has shut down 4,000 printing firms and 1,100 provincial newspapers for more than six weeks will end next Wednesday, union leaders and employers announced Friday night.

Pulp to Reds 'Impossible'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sales of B.C. pulp to Communist China will not be possible in the foreseeable future, an official of Alaska Pine and Cellulose Ltd. said Friday.

Better Than for Some Time

Canada, U.S. Relations 'Fundamentally Healthy'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Relations between Canada and the United States are better today than they have been for some time, says U.S. Consul-General Hayden Raynor of Vancouver.

He made the observation Friday in an address evaluating a week-long seminar on Canada-U.S. relations at the University of British Columbia.

Relations are "fundamentally healthy," Mr. Raynor said, and because of continuing consultation between the two governments "we find it almost always possible to come to some solution."

However, he noticed among Canadians at the seminar "more uneasiness than I had realized existed in respect of foreign investment."

Shaken Survivors Arrive in Victoria

Seven shaken survivors of Thursday's head-on collision between two of the CNR's passenger trains at Gainford, Alta., arrived in Victoria late last night.

None was among the 15 passengers listed as injured, but most of them bore bruises to remind them of their brush with death.

Typical comment was made by Mrs. Mildred Shewchuk, of 3886 Seaton Road, who said: "I never want to go through that again.

"It happened so quick. People were thrown out of their seats and everybody was screaming. We were there more than six hours and we missed all connections. Finally somebody brought sandwiches and coffee down to the wreck."

Her husband Nick said he heard the emergency brakes squeal just before the collision.

"Our kids, Helen (5) and Ronnie (4), slid off their seats and were jammed under a table," he said.

5,500-Mile Cruise—In U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever think you'd like to get the family into a little boat and go cruising down the river? Todd Crawford, a lean, twinkling, nut-brown Missourian, thought so, did so, and in 38 leisurely days has cruised to a world distance record.

Crawford, his wife Sue, and his daughter Sue, climbed into a 16-footer named Su Too in Yankton, S.D., on June 6. Several rivers, canals, inland waterways, one gulf, 21 states, 51 days and 5,500 miles later they reached New York. The previous record for an outboard motorboat cruise was 3,800 miles, set by Harvey Hacker in 1955.

Only 38 of the days were spent on the water. The other 13 were spent sightseeing ashore. Crawford and the three Sues now are chugging up the Hudson on the homeward leg of a cruise totalling 8,300 miles.

Asked what was the most irritating thing about such a summer, Mrs. Crawford, a cheerful sort, replied: "I'm scared of water."

Crawford said the route he laid out is the longest possible within the United States without resorting to portages.

From here on it's the Hudson River, Champlain Canal, Lake Champlain, old St. Lawrence Seaway, Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron, and Michigan, Chicago Canals, Mississippi, Missouri, and Osage river to the lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, which is home.

In Florida, they took a wrong river in the Everglades, ran into a dead end of trees, while backtracking got lashed by fringe winds of a tornado, ended up exhausted in a dismal hotel, and remembered the day was their 19th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Crawford was asked what they planned to do next summer.

Six Hurt On Train

REGINA (CP) — Six persons, one of them a dining car waiter, were brought to hospital here Friday after being hurt when the Canadian Pacific Railway's train No. 8, the Dominion, made an emergency stop as it was leaving Moose Jaw, 40 miles west.

Moscow Rises, Falls Daily

Red Capital Throbs In Tune with Tides

Twice a day it rises straight up more than a foot and a half.

Earth tides, like those of the sea, are caused by the gravitational pull of the sun and moon.

Nesmeyanov, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, noted the effect of earth tides on Moscow in an article published by Pravda on International Geophysical Year research. The article has been translated and distributed here.

Investigation of these ripples in the planet's crust, Nesmeyanov said, is "one of the comparatively new methods of studying the internal structure of the earth."

"It is known," he said, "that in Moscow the tidal wave in 12 hours can reach 50 to 60 centimetres (1.65 to 1.98 feet).

"This means that the whole city is raised in a vertical direction by half a metre twice a day."

This work, he suggested, could be done with special profit "in central Asia where the indirect effects caused by the shifting of the water masses of the oceans are not felt."

This and other research done during the IGY, he said, will lead to "substantial expansion of our knowledge of the earth."
